RED SOX END TRIP TONIGHT

By MERTON E. BURKE.
American Correspondent on "Red Sox" Coast-to-Coast Tour.

Merton E. Burke.

ABOARD RED SOX COAST TO COAST SPECIAL, Feb. 23.—Some hours late, but proceeding faster than many trains which are practically snowbound in the section through which they have passed, The Boston Red Sox put in the better part of today crossing the desert waste of Arizona.

To-night the train will probably reach the promised southern land of warmth and sunshine, and the boys will reach Redondo before bedtime. The trip has been a tiresome one to date. The men are home sore, snow-blind and for the most part have colds.

Never in the history of New Mexico, Arizona and Texas has such a snowfall come so late in the season, say railroad men. The entire stept in raincoats, bathrobes and sweaters.

At El Paso it was learned that the insurrectos of Mexico had quit fighting because of the cold. It was 8 above in El Paso and 10 above on the trip across New Mexico's sheep ranches. Everybody is nearly snow blind from the sun's glare on the brilliant prairies.

First Game on Sunday.

The long train journey has given Manager Donovan an opportunity to look over his men and figure out about how much training they will need. As in his statement sent herewith he thinks two days' field practice will work wonders and that the first game may be played Sunday. This may be postponed, however, if the train is very late in reaching camp.

Patsy Donovan, manager of the Red Sox, gave out the following statement today:

"You here look good to me. Some of the boys who were a bit heavy last year have taken off weight and are in much better trim. The catching staff is in hand condition, and the old pitchers tell me their arms are already in training.

"In two days I will have these ready to play ball, and good ball at that. Tell the Boston boys we are coming home from this great trip with a team which they will be proud of. There is a lot of good undeveloped stuff in the recruits, and we are going to work it out.

"After passing Friday and Saturday in field practice and in the baths, we will try a game on Sunday, provided we arrive on time. March 3 the Southern division will get into the tenor of the trip to open in San Francisco. The same day we will open the new Los Angeles Washington Park in spirit, if not in evident we are out to pull down big laurels."

Donovan to-day made out the list of men he will send to Sacramento. They are: Lecliar, Ferrell, Delly, Rourke, for infield; Nourse and Thompson for pitchers; Devolt, catcher, and Pond, outfield.

George Hollis, the Cincinnati man, from the Virginia League, will be tried out at second base. Herman Prieske, of Indiana, also looks good for the infield. Dick Neiger, who plays third, and who is another Virginia League man, will be worked out.

A large recruit pitching staff will be retained during the stay on the coast. Of the new men, Buck O'Brien looks good to Manager Donovan, and is liable to show. O'Brien is a Brockton man. Hugo Bedient, who played at Fall River, is reckoned a pretty good pitcher. Jess Dale is a big, rangy lad with a reputation for heavy hitting, and will likely stick. Hall and Hunt, who were with us for a while last year, are reported improved. Killilay, Moser, Pierce, Stanfield and Bostick will be given plenty of opportunity on the coast. Larry Pape is looked upon as a coming pitcher.

Dingbat Greets Players.

Of the new catchers, Cheshan will work out Nunnemaker, Sheehan, Williams and Thomas. Sheehan is a young giant and is expected to step into fast company hands down. He will be a handy man in scrimmage.

On arrival at El Paso Wednesday afternoon the Bostonians got their first glimpse of a reminder of home, aside from the snow. The local papers contained the Dingbat family, and their adventures were eagerly scanned by the whole team.

Here is Mr. Donovan's all-star cast, as at present doped out:

Wood, pitcher; Carrigan, catcher; Bradley, first; Gardner, second; Purtell, third; Wagner, short; Lewis, left; Hooper, right; Speaker, center.

Does it look good?

Mr. McIlvein announces mail should be sent to Redondo till March 26 for the Northern division, and till March 2 for the Southern.

Our young friend from Maine, Mr. Sawyer, was seen smoking a cigar to-day, but his sister been missing. I think it was a Carrigan smoke.

The weather is hopeful.

JOHNSON WILL FIGHT, BUT DEMANDS $30,000

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22.—Jack Johnson, the colored pugilist, who was among the spectators at the San Leandro races, took advantage of the opportunity to announce that he would fight Langford anywhere on condition that he be guaranteed $30,000 as his end of the purse. The Lang-Langford fight, Johnson said, had not changed his opinion of Langford.

THE SUFFRAGISTS' MERRY-GO-ROUND

WOMEN MARCH FOR SUFFRAGE

An army of women will march upon the State House to-night in a mighty demonstration in favor of votes for women. The parade will form in Park Square, and probably 3,000 strong, will march from there to the State House, where a hearing is to be accorded the old which gives woman the right to vote.

It will be the first time Boston has ever witnessed anything of the kind. To-day the women interested, the leaders in the Socialist and the women's equal suffrage movements were busy making preparations for to-night's parade and urging all sympathizers to be in line.

The parade will form in Park square at 7:30 o'clock. The line will start at 8 o'clock. It will be headed by fair sex Socialists. Then will come the Men's League for Equal Suffrage, and finally the suffrage women.

In the midst of their preparations they were greatly cheered by the arrival here of Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, the celebrated English suffragette, daughter of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst. Miss Pankhurst hurried here from the West to be present at to-night's hearing.

Overflow Meetings Arranged.

So great is the crowd that is expected to-night that overflow meetings have been arranged for. One is to be held at Ford Hall and others on the State House grounds. All the speakers at the parlings will address these meetings.

Miss Pankhurst has been travelling all night. She came from Washington and arrived here early. Yet the slight of travel dampened her enthusiasm not a bit. She was fresh and enthusiastic, and declared it her intention to march with the women to-night.

"I think the idea of the parade to-night is great," said she. "Let the women show their feelings by getting in line and marching on the State House in such numbers that the committee will be forced to listen to them.

"No, sir, I don't think there is a thing unwomanly in our marching through the streets to the State House. If we believe in our cause and are not ashamed of it, why shouldn't we show that we do and are not ashamed.

Glad to Be in Boston.

"I am always glad to come to Boston. The movement has made great progress here. The mere fact that you have an Anti-Suffrage League in this city shows that the Equal Suffrage Association has been doing great work. If it hadn't there would be no necessity for such an opposition league, don't you see. Where the movement is strong the enemies of it have to organize to fight it. Were it is not they don't bother to organize.

"I do not expect to speak at the State House hearing to-night. It would not be proper as I am not a resident of the State. But I will speak at the overflow meetings that are planned. I understand that they expect several of these—at Ford Hall and in the State House grounds. I will be at all of them and ready to speak.

"You ask me how we happened to choose our colors, the green, white and purple of the English association to which I belong. Well, we chose them because no other organization in England has those colors. Besides, we call them green, white and violet, the initials of which stand for Give Women Votes.

"As for my impressions of this country and of Boston, I can only say that nowhere have I been more hospitably welcomed than here on my former visit. When my mother came here fifteen months ago she was met by a procession of automobiles. Every bit of my time is planned for on the visit, which is a pretty good indication of popular feeling toward the cause.

"I think Americans are much more in sympathy with the suffragettes in England than with the suffragettes here. You know the American temperament is romantic and tends to put woman on a pedestal. So the thought that women are willing to suffer hardship for a cause and go to prison and all that sort of thing arouses chivalry in the American men, which is one of their foremost traits. Yet when it comes to treating with the women here and giving their own wives, mothers and sisters the vote they aren't so eager."

TAXI STRIKE MAY SPREAD

The adjustment committee of the striking chauffeurs and cab drivers served petitionary notice to-day that unless other taxi and carriage companies quit conveying passengers from hotels affected by the tieup of the Taxi Service Company, the employes of these interfering companies would be called out too.

Only the conservative course of the adjustment committee prevented a spread of the strike, which now has called out fifty-eight chauffeurs and fifty-three cab drivers of the Taxi Service Company.

There was a meeting of the strikers to-day at their headquarters in Wells Memorial. Pickets reported that two other companies, employing 250 men, had violated the rule regarding carrying away passengers from points affected by the strike.

The adjustment committee composed of T. M. Green of the local union, Harry P. Jennings, national vice-president of the Brotherhood of Teamsters; John J. Fenton, president of the teamsters' joint district council, and Joseph J. Hunt, vice-president, was requested to call an immediate strike of the men employed by the companies that had violated the rule.

Adjustment committee decided, however, to be lenient, but to notify the two concerns that if they again violated the rule an immediate strike will be declared.

Meanwhile, unless the disagreement between the Taxi Service Company and its striking employes is speedily adjusted, a general strike of all union chauffeurs and cab drivers may be ordered. This is threatened by the business agent of the teamsters' union after a meeting to-day.

The tie-up of the Taxi Service Company continues complete. The Parker House, Young's, Touraine, Lenox and Thorndike hotels, served by the Taxi Service Company, were without taxis or cabs to-day.

The decision of the union cab drivers employed by the Taxi Service Company to join the striking chauffeurs added to the complications.

WOMEN VOTERS WIN AGAIN IN SEATTLE

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 23.—For the second time in a month the votes of women have worked a revolution in Seattle. In yesterday's primary the women voters followed up their vote of February 7, which recalled Mayor Hiram C. Gill and his appointive officers, by defeating all except three candidates who were accused of being on intimate terms with the Gill administration.

CALIFORNIA APPEALS TO PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 — President Taft to-day received the telegraphed protest from the Senate of California against the new Japanese treaty now pending before the United States Senate. The California are much alarmed over the fact that the treaty does not restrict Japanese and Korean immigration. The telegram to the President follows:

California is much alarmed over the newspaper reports of the proposed new Japanese treaty. She Federal government, unless positively assured that Japan will enforce regulations restricting emigration to the United States of such subjects as are inimical to our Western civilization, should insist on a restriction clause in the new treaty.

Less than this will inflame the public mind all along the Pacific coast and may lead to a condition that will be deplored by those desirous of preserving good will between the United States and Japan.

This in the opinion of the State Senate Committee of Federal Relations, is the sentiment of the California Legislature.

FEDERAL RELATION COMMITTEE.

LEROY WRIGHT, Chairman.

President Taft to-day sent the following telegram to Governor Johnson of California:

I have the resolution transmitted by you. The treaty and the assurances from Japan as to the continuance of the present arrangement are exactly such as you approved when the Secretary of State and I explained them to you here. Will you not explain this to the two houses of your Legislature, to prevent action by reason of misunderstanding.

Governor Johnson was here several weeks with the San Francisco boomers for the Panama canal exposition.

Further news of the Japanese treaty situation is printed on page 6.

COURT STREET'S NAME CHANGED

The Board of Street Commissioners voted unanimously to-day to change the name of that part of Court Street, from Cornhill to Washington street to State street.

Unless the Mayor disapproves Court street becomes a part of the main financial thoroughfare of Boston by March 1. The change must be approved by the Mayor before the Board of Aldermen give this year.

There was very strong opposition to the change on the part of patriotic and historical societies, and they will probably appeal from the decision of the board to the State Highway Commission which has final word on the question.

The change was made on the petition of the business concerns and the financial institutions located in Court street who urged that the character of the thoroughfare and its location made it a part of the financial centre of the city.

Mayor Fitzgerald is at Palm Beach, and it has not yet been decided whether the order will be sent to him for action or whether Acting Mayor Ballantyne will be asked to sign it.

The Street Commissioners also changed the name of Division street, South Boston, to MacAllen street and Erie street, Dorchester, from Gleaway to McLellan street was changed to Drummond street.

MITCHELL SIGNS UP WITH ROCHESTER

Fred Mitchell, the Boston catcher, and who last season was one of the regular receivers of the New York Highlanders, to-day signed a contract with Manager John Ginger of the Rochester champions of the Eastern League and will this year again don the uniform in the minors.

Mitchell was released by Manager Hal Chase of the Highlanders to the Rochester Club, for good reasons by Walter Blair, who with Ed Sweeney, will divide the batching work of the New York club this season.

NORTH LOUTH VOTING IS DECLARED VOID

DUBLIN, Feb. 23—The North Louth election, by which Timothy M. Healy was defeated for Parliament by Richard Hazleton, a Redmondite, was to-day declared null an dvoid.

Healy contested Hazelton's victory in the courts, and on February 10, when the case came to trial, Hazleton's counsel withdrew his defence, giving rise to the report that Healy had won a clear victory. However, the decree evenly nullifying the election was not handed down until to-day. Healy alleged that the voters of North Louth were intimidated by violence.

W. R. REMINGTON, FOUND GUILTY OF KILLING MERCHANT

WILLIAM REMINGTON

REMINGTON IS FOUND GUILTY

William R. Remington, twenty-eight years old, alias James Riley, by awaiting sentence for the murder of Max Sorokine in this city on July 31 last, having been found guilty of manslaughter by a jury whose sealed verdict was opened by Judge Jenney in the Suffolk Superior Criminal Court to-day.

The jury was out on the case nine hours. Remington heard the verdict read without any visible signs of emotion.

The case had many dramatic features. When Sorokine was found dead in his little grocery store at No. 237 Harrison avenue, it was supposed he had killed himself.

The police and Coroner Timberg did not accept this theory but the eldest son of the murdered man refused to believe his father had shot himself and started an investigation. No evidence however, to disprove the theory of suicide was obtained until Remington's craving for morphine to which he was addicted, led him to make a confession that he had accidentally killed Sorokine.

He told them he had gone to Sorokine's store to sell him a revolver, intending to use the money to buy morphine, but that when he pulled out the weapon to show it the storekeeper became so frightened that it affected him and in his excitement he pulled the trigger, three bullets entering Sorokine's body and killing him instantly.

Remington was brought to this city and indicted on a charge of murder in the second degree. In court he repudiated the confession he made at Tewksbury and asserted he made it only with the idea of getting away from that institution, as the officials there refused to give him morphine or the other drugs for which he was craving.

The revolver found beside Sorokine's body, however, was identified as one bought by Remington in a South End pawnshop a few days before the murder, and other evidence was produced to connect Remington with the crime.

Even more to the satisfaction of Sorokine's sons than the punishment of the guilty man is the clearing of the stain of suicide from the father's name.

ADMITS TAKING CASH TO PAY BOARD BILL

John L. Riley, seventeen years old, of Canton, railroad ticket agent at the River Street Station at Hyde Park on the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R., was arraigned in the Dedham District Court to-day charged with the larceny of money and tickets. He admitted taking the money to pay a back board bill and cover up a shortage in his accounts by creating the impression that the office had been robbed by yeggs. He was held for the superior court under $500 bonds.

ARRESTS SOUGHT FOR PANKHURST NOTICES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23. — Using the sidewalks of this city for advertising the lecture of Sylvia Pankhurst, the English suffragette, on the cause of woman suffrage, here, may result in some of her followers failing into the hands of the Washington police for violation of the police regulations which prohibit the chalking of the pavements. The arrests of two women have been ordered.

MAN ACCUSED AS SLAYER IS OWN WITNESS

PLYMOUTH, Feb. 23.—Harry Marshall, accused with Lena Cusumano of murdering her husband on the witness stand in their trial here to-day was asked:

"Did you kill Frank Cusumano?"

"No, sir," was the reply, uttered with much emphasis.

"Do you know anything about his disappearance?"

"I know he went away—that's all I know about it."

These questions and replies came at the close of Marshall's direct examination, when he had been on the witness stand about an hour. The courtroom was crowded. Lena Cusumano, who, it was announced, would take the stand later, was pale and nervous. She followed the testimony of Marshall, who, it is declared, she hired for $35 to kill her husband, closely.

Marshall, whose Italian name is Enrico Masciol, is a handsome man with a rather dandified air. He has a soft, musical voice and responds a little when he first began to answer questions. He answered some of the shorter questions in English and the longer ones in Italian.

The accused man said he was twenty-three years old, that he came from Shelby, had boarded with the Cusumano family since June 29 last and that he worked with Cusumano.

Informed by Wife.

"I first learned of the disappearance of Frank Cusumano on the Sunday night of the day he went away," testified Marshall. "It was that night that he had gone away. I and the boarders talked the matter over and we agreed that if he did not come we would inform the police.

"On that Sunday I walked down to the ocean and went in bathing. When I returned I was asked the time about 5 o'clock and I told him it was five and that there were a great many sea plants to be had. Frank and Lena and the children went down and bathed. I saw them when they returned.

"Then I took a walk down to the beach and took a cigar that I went back in the afternoon to the house and wrote some letters to Italy. That took up the afternoon.

Q.—What time did you go to sleep that night? A.—About 8:30 or 9 o'clock. I slept in my room as usual upstairs.

Q. Was there any talk about Frank's disappearance the next morning at breakfast? A.—I and the boarders talked about it.

Q.—What did you do that day? A.—I worked in the forenoon and came home for dinner at 11:30. I went back to work in the afternoon and came home at night.

Talked of Disappearance.

Q.—Who were you working for? A.—Mr. Jacobson. I talked to him about Frank going away. He told me about finding the body. He said he saw the body and he said yes. I asked him if he knew the body. He said he couldn't tell who it was because there was no eyes, no teeth and no hair. He asked me if I was willing to go and see the body and I said yes. I would go in the morning.

Q.—What time of weather the next day? A.—It rained all afternoon so that we could not work in the cement. It was alleged by the Commonwealth that Marshall was so nervous that he was unable to work all that day).

Q.—Did you have any conversation with Chief of Police Reynolds on the night that the body was found? A.—Yes. I was in bed when he came to our house. He asked which Frank went away. Lena said he drew $250 and went away a month before. I told him that Jacobson had told me about finding the body and that Jacobson could not tell who it was. He asked me if Lena knew about it. I said "no," if she did she might drop dead."

Visit to Undertaker's.

Q.—Did you see Frank that night? A.—Yes. I slept there that night. Next morning I went to the undertaker's and looked at the body. I stayed there about ten minutes. Then I went to work. The next day Lena asked me to take her to see the body. Lena and I went to the undertaker and from there went to Hingham Centre and saw the body. After that we started home in a car, and when we got off the car at Whitehead we were arrested.

Q.—Did you see Pandecalo at Abington? A.—Yes, but I didn't talk to him.

Q.—Did you see Pandecalo and Frank Pandecalo that he (Marshall) killed Cusumano. Pandecalo testified that Marshall told him that he killed Cusumano.

Q.—Did you ever see the axe shown in this case as the one with which Cusumano was murdered? A.—Yes, I saw it in the fire stables.

Didn't Have the Axe.

Q.—Did you ever take that axe to the Cusumano home? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did you get out of your bed on the night of September 18? A.—No.

Lucy Cusumano, the nine-year-old daughter of the murdered man, testified

FIVE OVERCOME BY GAS; 1 DEAD

Inability of a child to close a hard working gas jet caused the death of Emma Dana Bloomberg, twelve years old, who with her sister Alice, sixteen; her brother Paul, nineteen, and her stepbrothers, Max, Edward and Joseph Bloomberg, was overcome by gas in the house of Marrie Bloomberg, on the third floor of the house at No. 113 Northampton street, early to-day.

Emma died just as the ambulance conveying the victims reached the City Hospital. Paul and Alice are in a critical condition, and are on the dangerous list.

The other lads, Max, Edward and Joseph, were only partially overcome and were relieved by the first aid treatment given them by the police.

There are nine persons in the Bloomberg family, and five of them were overcome. Mr. and Mrs. Bloomberg, who occupied a room off the kitchen, and Bloomberg's sons, Samuel and Joseph, who slept in the parlor, were not affected.

The family retired about 10:40 o'clock last night. Mrs. Bloomberg was the first one to awake and she roused a smell of gas in the dining room. The gas and window of which were tightly closed. She discovered Paul, who slept on a couch, and her eldest son, who were in a stupor on the floor, all unconscious. She arouse her husband and stepsons and they did their best to revive the victims.

Joseph, who had been sent for a doctor, returned in fifteen minutes to report that he had rang the door bell of a doctor on Massachusetts avenue, but that the doctor refused to come with him, saying he could do no good and to rush the victims to the hospital. Sergeant Healy and Patrolmen Garland and Laughin went to the house and gave first aid to the victims. Mrs. Bloomberg told the police the gas let in the Bloomberg room was hard to open and that probably Emma, supposed she had closed it when in reality it was left half open.

Bloomberg conducts a soliding shop on the lower floor of the building. He and his eldest son retired some time before the others and he finally did last night. No one knows precisely how long the gas was in on the same floor as the others except by the family.

DERELICT FRENCH WARSHIP ASHORE

LONDON, Feb. 23.—A vessel, believed to be the wreck of the old French battleship Richelieu, went ashore off Sicily Islands in a gale to-day. It was reported to Lloyds that the stranded craft was a battleship and that a number of passengers aboard. This belief prevailed for some time owing to the inability of the life saving crew to get alongside in the heavy sea to ascertain the ship's identity.

TORIES IN PANIC OVER CHURCHILL'S SPEECH.

LONDON, Feb. 23—Dismayed by the overwhelming success of the government on the first reading of the veto bill, curtailing the powers of the House of Lords, the Tories now plan a deadlock, if possible, on the measure until after the coronation of King George V., hoping thus to put the Liberals in the position of having to create a number of new peers in order to force the measure through the upper chamber. Lord Landsdowne's counter bill for a reform in the Lords is regarded by many expert politicians as more in the nature of an attempt to delay the issue and force a deadlock than as a real surrender of the powers asserted by the House of Lords.

A little scene which came and went with the rapidity of a flashlight during Secretary Churchill's speech has stirred the country more than anything else that has happened in the exciting days it is passing through.

Churchill had just said, in the quietest tones imaginable, as if he were only speaking about the weather or the price of electricity per kilowatt:

"In addition to Home Rule, the government will have a measure for creating a fair and evenly constituted second chamber."

He was about to proceed when from the Tory benches came excited cries of "When?" "When?"

For a moment Churchill was taken off his guard. But he recovered himself in a second by replying:

"I cannot reveal the government's intentions as to its future policy on a chance question."

His words carried dismay to the already well cowed Tories. They meant the death knell of plural voting on the part of wealthy real estate owners. As the law now stands a man owning property in London, Liverpool, Glasgow, Edinburgh, Cardiff, Cork and Dublin can vote in each place. This explains the absurd custom of holding elections on succeeding days in those cities and stringing a general election along for weeks. The "property" owner can use his motor and the railroad and connect with each election day.

Churchill's slip, if it were a slip, foreshadows "One man, one vote." This would strike the Tory party in its very vitals.

Tories Demoralized.

The tremendous enthusiasm of the ovation tendered Premier Asquith in the Commons after the passage of the veto bill on its first reading has further helped to demoralize the rank and file of the Tories, who had hoped the government majority might be cut down appreciably when the measure came to a direct vote.

Their hopes were dashed when the bill was passed by the full government majority of 124. The vote was 351 to 227.

When the vote was announced the Irish Nationalists rose in their places, cheering wildly and waving their hats. The Liberal members quickly emulated their example. This exhibition of enthusiasm was repeated a few minutes later when Prime Minister Asquith quietly left the scene of his victory in his initial action against the Lords.

The debate maintained a good oratorical level, but presented few new points. The dominant note of the Unionist speeches was an invitation to the government to settle the matter by agreement.

Is Your Hair Dull, Faded or Brittle?

(From Southern Style Book)

"Drenching and rinsing of the hair is a mistake. Too much water has ruined more than one head of fine hair. It is possible to remove more of the natural oil of the scalp than is beneficial, and a certain amount is required to keep the scalp soft and pliable, affording good growing ground for the hair.

"Dry shampooing removes dust and excessive oil, refreshes and invigorates the scalp and leaves the hair clean and fresh. Mix 4 ounces of orris root with 4 ounces of therox, and you have a dependable shampoo powder. Sift a tablespoonful upon the head, then brush it well and carefully through the hair—and your shampoo is over, with no hours of waiting for your hair to dry or exposure to the danger of catching cold. Therox promotes the growth of hair, and makes it light, fluffy and beautifully lustrous."

FIRE UNDER STAGE SCATTERS DANCERS

Several hundred young men and women were given a scare at 1 a. m. to-day when a fire broke out under the stage of Odd Fellows' Hall, Walden street and Matthews avenue, North Cambridge, during a ball. It was evidently due to the careless use of cigarettes. The damage was only $100, but the rest of the programme found few remaining to enjoy it.

VALUELESS AFTER MARCH 9, 1911.

5 DAYS SPECIAL PRIZES

BY THE CONTEST EDITOR.

"I don't care what teacher says. I can't do that sum."

—Babes in Toyland.

So sung the Babes. They sulked that they couldn't "do that sum." But here is one that they could have done:

Days in February..... 28
Days gone to date..... 23

Days left 5

The answer is "five." Only five days left in February. If this were leap year there would be 29 days in February and 6 days left. But it isn't leap year, and five days is the correct answer.

Well, what about it? What about five days left in February, anyhow?

There is just this much about it. There are only five days left before the close of the special February contest for fifty-three prizes. These prizes are for the qualifiers polling the most votes BY SUBSCRIPTION between February 1 and February 28 inclusive. The February contest runs to 10 o'clock on the night of February 28, which is next Tuesday. The AMERICAN NEWS Contest Department, No. 1472 Devonshire street will be open till 10 p. m. next Tuesday night to receive votes by subscription in the special February contest. Any votes by subscription mailed before or up to 10 p. m. February 28 (as shown by the postmark), will be accepted for the special February Contest.

Just Five Days Left.

So, counting from 10 o'clock to-night, candidates have just five days left in which to roll up the largest possible vote they know how before this special February contest comes to a close.

Therefore—get busy. Wind up Pearsary with a bang. Hustle for votes by subscription. Don't hold back your votes. Send them in. If your friends are going to subscribe for you, tell them to do it NOW. Time must be allowed to get the subscription in to the Contest Department and to get the accompanying order and the extra postcard back to the subscriber.

And right here the Contest Editor says again—don't lose or misplace that newsdealer's order and return postcard. Take them to the newsdealer, as directed, and follow the instructions. Otherwise you will be delayed in getting your paper and your candidate friend will be delayed in getting your credit.

Have you fixed the other important contest dates firmly in your mind? Here they are:

February winners announced Sunday, March 5.

First list of candidates' standing by district announced Sunday, March 12.

Only votes received up to and including February 28 will be included in the compilation of first standing.

In rolling up a busy February vote you are not only getting in line for the special February prizes, but you are also boosting your standing just so much in the main contest. Never lose sight of the main contest, with its 1,000 prizes. These prizes represent an aggregate value of $35,000. The capital prize alone consists of an $8,000 house and two lots at Riverton-on-the-Charles. It is a fine home, a home for life.

999 Other Prizes.

The 999 other prizes are tremendously valuable. There are seven automobiles, one for each of the seven districts. Likewise there are seven motor boats and seven pianos. Also a long list of other prizes.

The seven automobiles alone represents thousands of dollars of commercial valuation. They are all 1911 models, every one a beauty and of standard make.

In lining up the special February contest, for instance, the automobile prize is an Interstate car. The Interstate represents the best product of the Western manufacturer. It is in every way an up-to-date, excellently constructed and thoroughly-going motor car. It is the product of skilled mechanics who, by putting brains into their work, have produced a model correct in appearance, without a flaw in construction and suited for all-around service. A duplicate of the Interstate car offered in this contest will be found in the forthcoming Automobile Show. Manager V. A. Charles has made arrangements to display one there.

Wouldn't you like a car like that? Or a piano? Or a motor boat—to your nothing of that $8,000 house and two lots at Riverton?

It's up to you.

PARSON DOWNS IN DIVORCE COURT

Charged With Cruelty, Accuses Wife in Case That Comes Up in Court Opening To-day

The Rev. W. W. Downs, who was named as co-respondent in a divorce suit by Frederick Tabor in Dedham, when he was pastor of the Brookline Square Baptist Church, to the defendant in another divorce suit filed for trial at the session of the Middlesex County Divorce Court which opened in East Cambridge to-day.

Downs's second wife, who brings the suit, formerly was Sadie Slayton, before her marriage a waitress in a restaurant in North Market street.

Mr. Downs is accused of cruel and abusive treatment. He is familiarly known as "Parson" Downs. At the time of the Tabor suit he was pastor of the Roxbury Square Baptist Church, and contested the case, he said, mostly to clear his name.

Files Cross Libel.

Mr. Downs has filed a cross libel in which he denies the charges.

When he married Miss Slayton, who is now seeking a divorce, it was one of the surprises of the year. The bride had been a waitress in a restaurant on North Market street, where the pastor used to eat his noon luncheon.

At that time he was a widower with cares enough by a former marriage, and also five grandchildren that he was looking after for. He was fifteen years old, while she was only twenty-three.

On the eve of the wedding Mrs. Downs said to a reporter: "Mr. Downs and I know each other well for years. I learned to love him on account of his kindly disposition. Our marriage will be a happy one."

Denies Allegations.

Not quite two years later, however, she left Mr. Downs and went to Windsor, Vt., his native town, and in the fall of that year she filed a divorce libel charging that the parson had been cruel and abusive to her.

The allegations were denied by the Rev. Mr. Downs, but he did not at first plan to contest the suit. Afterwards he changed his mind, claiming that he would clear himself of her charges and himself charging her with being unfaithful.

"Parson" W. W. Downs and the wife who sues him for divorce.

BEVERIDGE HITS LORIMER AGAIN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Mr. Beveridge of Indiana resumed his attack on Senator Lorimer in the Senate to-day. It is possible that a vote will be reached to-day on the question of unseating him.

Following Senator Beveridge, a number of other Senators, including Bailinger, Stone and Lafollette, were expected to join the discussion.

While the friends of Lorimer are confident the title has been turned, and that he will be allowed to retain his seat, the vigor of the attack upon him has not been lessened.

MOTHER OF EIGHT TELLS OF PRIVATION

A mother of eight children, carrying the youngest in her arms, to-day told a pitiful story of privation and want in the South Boston court, where she appeared as a witness against her husband, charged with the failure to support his wife and the eight children. Judge Fallon sentenced the man, John Glover, of No. 41 Wood yard street, South Boston, to three months in the House of Correction. He appealed and was held in $300 for the Superior Court. The day the agent of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children found us," said she, "the children were huddled together in two attic rooms. The two beds would not hold them all and at night they slept on the cold floor. We had a stove, but no fuel. I was breaking up chairs to warm the rooms for the children. We had no fuel in the house, not even a crust of bread."

CAPT. COLLINS IS BANKRUPT

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Captain Charles Glenn Collins, formerly of the British army, who married the beautiful Natalie Schenck, under the belief that she was an heiress, while also thought his income was $50,000 a year, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court to-day.

He gives his liabilities as $414, 803.92 and his assets as $838,750. The assets are described as household goods valued at $2,500; debts due $4,000, and stocks and bonds worth $832,000.

Captain Collins is staying at the St. Regis. He could not be found there to-day. After his wife had sued him for divorce Collins settled in Boston and worked in a South Boston pottery works. Upon obtaining a decree, Mrs. Collins married William Latimer, whose wife, Clara Bloodgood, committed suicide in Baltimore.

HERE'S A SHAMPOO WORTH TRYING

"Much depends on what you use when shampooing," says Mae Martyn, in the Los Angeles Times. "Great injury is often done the hair and scalp by employing harmful mixtures for this purpose, while a simple thing like cantrox almost works wonders in cleansing the hair and scalp.

"After a cantrox shampoo the scalp is soft and pliant and the hair will have regained its original lustre and fluffiness and is easier to do up.

"Dissolve a teaspoonful of cantrox in a teacup of hot water and shampoo the head well with this, then rinse thoroughly and dry. You will be agreeably surprised at the result.

"While cantrox is not expensive, you should be careful to get an original package."

HYDE PARK VOTE ON ANNEXATION

Hyde Park citizens will vote to-morrow at a special meeting on the question of annexation to Boston. It is expected the greater part of the 3,200 voters will cast their ballots, supporters and opponents being about evenly divided.

The supporters urge the passing of the article on the grounds that there would be a prospect of a 5-cent fare to Boston, the advantages of the educational and hospital facilities of Boston, and the general convenience of being a part of a large city.

Inflammation of the Kidneys and Bladder

Permanently Cured 25 Years Ago—Patient Still Strong and Well—Dropsical Complication After Typhoid Fever Driven Out of the System by Warner's Safe Cure After All Other Remedies Had Failed.

Dear Reader—Let me ask you, do you seriously appreciate what this means and what a wonderful medicine this must be to act like magic in cases that the doctors have given up and cases where the patients have had kidney troubles so serious that they have discouraged about their restoration to health?

Kidney disease is becoming more prominent in one form or another on account of the careless mode of living, and it behooves everyone to be on guard. If the kidneys become diseased or overworked complications are almost sure to arise—Bright's Disease, dropsy, urinary disorders, rheumatism—and after any of these gets a hold on the system it is hard to purge the system of the germs.

The experience of Mrs. Faught and her husband are similar to those of thousands who have testified to having been cured of kidney, liver and bladder diseases by Warner's Safe Cure. "It is with pleasure that I testify to the merits of Warner's Safe Cure. I have used it in my family for 25 years. When I first started to use it I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the kidneys and bladder; three one-dollar bottles cured me entirely, and I have never been troubled since.

"In the Fall of 1880 my husband suffered a run of typhoid. After the fever left him his limbs were very much bloated. The physicians could give him nothing to carry off the water and the effects of the disease from his system. One day I persuaded him to try Warner's Safe Cure. I gave him four bottles, and the bloating disappeared, his strength was restored and he was on the road road to health. At other times I have found your remedy invaluable. I have twice had analysis of urine from your laboratories, and have perfect confidence in your advice and directions.

"Warner's Safe Remedies are our family medicines at all seasons of the year. I always recommend them to any suffering ones I can find. You may use this letter and my name to help suffering humanity in any way you can." Mrs. T. J. Faught, Leslie, Mich.

Warner's Safe Cure has been prescribed by leading doctors for over thirty years. It is compounded by men skilled in pharmacy and chemistry from the fresh juices of plants and medicinal roots gathered at the proper season in various quarters of the globe. It is pleasant to the taste and agreeable to the most sensitive stomach. It is put up in 50c and $1.00 sizes and sold by all druggists.

CUSUMANO SUSPECT DENIES HE IS SLAYER

that on the night of September 18 she saw Marshall unlock a door in the room in which it was declared her father was murdered.

Q.—Did you ever see the quilt that has been shown in this case? A.—No.

Q.—Did you ever tell anybody that you killed Cusumano? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Tell you ever swing in a hammock with Lena? A.—No.

Q.—Did you kill Frank Cusumano? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did you know anything about Frank Cusumano's disappearance. A.—I knew he went away—that's all I know about it.

Mr. Coughlin began his address at 9:15. He said that it was the first time that either of the defendants had had a chance to get their side of the matter before the court. He said there would be two arguments, one in behalf of each of the defendants.

"Both defendants will take the witness stand," declared the lawyer. "They will deny the alleged admissions that they have been represented as making by witnesses for the Commonwealth.

"They will deny that they ever made any confession that they killed Frank Cusumano or any other man. They will deny that they killed Cusumano. They will explain their actions on September 18, the day of Cusumano's disappearance, and tell what they did."

Before Mr. Coughlan made his address Mrs. Josephine Perri, a sister of Lena Cusumano, was recalled to the stand. She had been a witness for the Commonwealth. She was asked:

Q.—Want instructions did Cater Whitney give you relative to Lena Cusumano when he placed the child in your hands? A.—He told me to look after the child.

Gave No Instructions.

Q.—Did he tell you not to let her go out of your sight? A.—No.

Q.—Did he tell you not to let her go to school? A.—No.

Lucy is the nine-year-old daughter of Lena Cusumano. She gave testimony against the two defendants.

Frank M. Reynolds, chief of police of Hull, who has been only assisting District Attorney Barker in the presentation of the State's case, is ill in bed at the Samoset Hotel with rheumatism.

FIFIELD WILL IS ALLOWED

The will of the late George W. Fifield, a former Mayor of Lowell, who left the bulk of his $500,000 estate to his housekeeper, Mrs. Dora A. Chase, was allowed by Judge Mellen in the probate court at East Cambridge today.

Before allowing the will Judge Mellaire received from Mrs. Chase a notice in which she declined to accept as sole executor of the estate as provided in the will. Moses F. Bill, of Lowell, was named as executor and he and Mrs. Chase filed bond of $250,000 each.

Former Mayor Fifield in his will left $10,000 each to the St. Joseph's Hospital, Lowell, and the Lowell General Hospital; $5,000 to the Grace Universalist Church, to his sister, Emmie S. Wilson of Wentworth, N. H., $20,000 and to his sister Abbie M. Fifield of Belmont, N. H., $50,000, which he cut to $1,000 in the codicil.

All of his real property, his home and the residue of his personal property Mrs. Chase is entitled to a gift of $50,000 in cash.

When the will was filed it was rumored that a contest would be made by Fifield's sisters in Belmont, N. H., who was cut off with $1,000, stating that she was satisfied, in a paper filed with Judge Mellaire. It is understood that a settlement has been reached.

$20,000 CLAIM FOR BLACK HAND CHARGE

Tomasso Fevrari, who is seeking $20,000 damages on the claim that he was called a "Black Hand" agent, took the stand today in the Superior Court and told his story to the jury. The defendants are Luigi and Alphonso Pantilicchi, father and son, who are tenders in the North End. In 1908 a "Black Hand" letter demanding $500 was received by one of the Pantilicchis.

RHODE ISLAND OWES TREASURY $382,335

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 23.—The treasury of Rhode Island has received a statement from the auditor of the U. S. Treasury showing that the State owed the Federal Government $382,335. This money was ordered to Rhode Island in 1850 when the balance in the treasury was divided among the States for safe keeping until they should be called upon to deliver it.

PARK BOARD FIGHTS L STREET BATH PLAN

The Board of Park Commissioners in a letter to Mayor Fitzgerald today placed itself on record as opposed to any extension of the L street bath. The commissioners believe that to extend the fences and widen the enclosure at the bath would tend to disfigure the Strandway. The bath leaders believe that the constantly increasing patronage at the L street bath necessitates enlarging it at once. Chairman Peabody of the Park Commissioners suggests that if the proposed building must be continued it might be done on McKenzie bank at the end of the city property, instead of at L street which is in the center of a great sweep of park shore front.

CHILDREN RESCUED FROM SUFFOCATION

Parents Away, Woman and Fireman Carry Out Little Ones in Washington Street Fire.

Fireman Wade Punch and Frank Richardson, the boy he carried from burning house.

Two children were rescued from suffocation by smoke at a fire which broke out today on the second floor of the three-story brick dwelling house at No. 1622 Washington street. They are Francis J. Richardson, four years old, and Isabelle Richardson, two years old, children of Mr. and Mrs. Burton J. Richardson, both of whom were away at work at the time.

The rescuers were Mrs. Margaret Wade of No. 1 Andrew's place and William Punch, driver of Chemical No. 1 of Shawmut avenue. The fire, which started from some cause unknown, caused a damage of $200.

Mrs. Wade, who saved one of the children, is employed by the Richardsons as housekeeper during their absence, at work. She had been in the kitchen, but went to the front room to the upper landing, carrying the children behind her. When she opened the door smoke poured out. The room was a mass of flame.

MAYOR INVITED TO JOIN TOUR

Mayor Fitzgerald was today officially invited to join the Chamber of Commerce tourists who will visit the principal cities of Europe leaving Boston the latter part of June. In his letter of invitation Secretary McKibben says:

"Inasmuch as the conference of the International Congress of Chambers of Commerce is to be held in Boston in 1912, this tour will enable verbal invitations to be delivered in the cities visited abroad to attend this congress. It is hoped that you will be able to join this party, thus giving the force of your presence and interest to Boston officially represented.

A tour of sixty days is proposed, and London, Paris, Vienna, Brussels and Rome will be among the cities visited. It is contemplated to limit the party to about fifty persons, and the invitations, national, State, county and city officials and many of the leading business men and other affairs, together with many

LYNN BANDITS NOW IN PRISON

The two survivors of the trio of bandits who shot and killed Thomas Landregan, a Lynn shoe manufacturer, and Policeman Jacob Goldberg, in an attempt to rob Landregan of $4,500 which he was taking from the bank last June, were taken to the Charlestown State prison today. They will be electrocuted the week beginning March 5.

The doomed men are Wassilt Iraskewich and Antonio Ambrosino, and Andrew Horn, aged twenty-four. The third member of the gang was killed by the police.

The holding and chase of the bandits was one of the most sensational events of the kind that ever happened in Lynn. Hundreds of citizens joined the detectives in running down the fire men. They were finally cornered and convicted of murder. They were locked up in the Salem jail until today.

BREAKS UP A BAD COLD IN A FEW HOURS AND CONTAINS NO QUININE.

It is a positive fact that a dose of Pape's Cold Compound taken every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken will cure Grippe or break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach or limbs.

You distinctly feel the cold breaking and all the disagreeable grippe symptoms leaving after the very first dose. It promptly ends the most miserable nostrils pains, headache, dizziness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars and contains no quinine, which we have demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

JAPANESE PACT AROUSES COAST

CALIFORNIA UPPER HOUSE PROTESTS PROPOSED TREATY; PRESIDENT IS WARNED.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 23.—The indignation of the whole Pacific Coast over President Taft's proposed new treaty with Japan is indicated by the resolutions adopted by the California Senate protesting against the treaty and a telegram of warning flashed to the President by Leroy Wright, chairman of the Federal Relations Committee.

This telegram flatly tells the President that if his proposed treaty goes through it will so inflame the public mind on the coast that war with Japan may be precipitated.

Provision for Restrictions.

The feature of the treaty that has aroused the western slope of the country is that it provides absolutely no provision relative to the restriction of Japanese immigration, but leaves this "to the honor of Japan."

This is the telegram that was forwarded to President Taft in behalf of the committee and as representing the sentiment in California, regardless of political party.

Mr. President: California is much alarmed over the newspaper report of the proposed new Japanese treaty. The federal government, unless positively assured that Japan will enforce regulations restricting emigration to the United States of such subjects as are inimical to our western civilization, should insist upon a restriction clause in the new treaty. Less than this will inflame the public mind all along the Pacific Coast, and may lead to a condition that will be deplored by those desirous of preserving amity and good will between the United States and Japan. This, in the opinion of the Senate Committee on Federal Relations, is the sentiment of the California Legislature.

Adopted Unanimously.

This telegram was preceded by a special meeting of the Senate, at which strong resolutions in opposition to the treaty were unanimously adopted without debate. The resolution which was presented by Senator Cammetti reads:

Whereas, the State of California, relying in good faith upon assurances from official sources given to the people of the State during the last four years, that the immigration to the United States of laborers was proceeding by a "mutual agreement" between our government and that of Japan, and that the latter nation was as anxious to retain as we were to exclude them, patriotically and patiently observed calmness pending negotiations for a new treaty; that

Whereas, our people have been led to believe and hope that there would be no surrender of our rights in the premises; and

Whereas, it further appears that even the protective features relating to immigration matters of the present treaty with Japan are omitted in the new one; be

Therefore, be it resolved, that the Senate of the State of California earnestly urges the President of the United States to withdraw said treaty from further consideration by the Senate of the United States, and

Be it further resolved, that we appeal to the Senate of the United States to withhold and refuse its assent to a compact fraught with so much danger to our citizenry, to our industrial development, and to our civilization.

Favors Stronger Protest.

Senator Gates, a Republican and a member of the Committee on Federal Relations, declared that if conditions were as grave as first reports indicated he would favor a stronger protest than that contained in the Cammetti resolution. He urged that time be allowed in which to hear from the California Senators at Washington in reply to a telegram sent to them by the committee.

The feeling in San Francisco is shown by the statement made to-day by P. H. McCarthy, Mayor of that city, and president of the State Building Trades Council, in which he says:

"When in Washington recently I was assured that the present regulations in regard to coolie labor, including that of Japanese, would not be disturbed by the administration. I was given to understand that coolie labor would be absolutely kept out and that no labor would come into the United States from Asiatic countries. The majority of our people have objected, and now continue to object, to the coolie labor from Japan coming to this country."

"A Mistaken Idea."

James D. Phelan, former Mayor of San Francisco, made this statement:

"The powers at Washington, with a mistaken idea of placating the Oriental races, are contriving to strike from the treaty the provisions upon which Californians rely for protection. We are told that the dangers of Oriental immigration have ceased, but this is not true."

President Taft's Grave Blunder

From To-day's New York American.

The President's proposed new treaty with Japan ought not to be ratified by the Senate—because it contains the seeds of serious misunderstanding and is dangerous to international peace.

It requires no gift of prophecy, but only a good understanding of the history of our actual relations with Japan and the actual temper of the two contracting parties, to foretell that, if the treaty as it now stands should be ratified it would, within two or three years, be likely to precipitate a war.

That is the opinion of the American. And accordingly this newspaper respectfully warns the President that he is making a grave mistake.

The treaty with Japan under which we are now living contains a specific agreement by which Japan assents and submits to any legislation that this country may choose to make with reference to the exclusion of coolie labor.

The President proposes to omit this agreement from the new treaty.

It appears that those who have represented Japan in the negotiations want to leave the immigration question to "the honor of gentlemen," and that they propose to keep this country from being flooded by Japanese laborers by their own domestic legislation without troubling the United States to attend to it.

Such a settlement is wholly unsatisfactory to the American people, and the President and Senate should be apprised of that fact in the most emphatic terms.

It is puerile to say "on the honor of gentlemen" that America has a right to exclude Japanese immigration, and then to insist that the honor of Japanese gentlemen would be outraged if we were to say so in plain contractual terms.

If this is not a puerility it is something worse. It is insincerity and stealth.

At all events, common prudence on our part absolutely requires a treaty safeguard against Japanese immigration.

Recall how much friction and perilous heat was engendered a while ago when California chanced to admit a twenty-year-old Japanese youth to a primary school.

Something similar may easily happen at any time to inflame the prejudices of either side.

It would be a blind and reckless error to ratify the new treaty in its present terms.

The President should reopen the negotiations, and should insist upon the plain stipulation of our right to do what we are bound to do and cannot without social suicide refrain from doing—to wit, keep back from our coasts the threatened hordes of Oriental laborers.

MAYOR MINGLES WITH IDLE RICH

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 23.—Mayor Fitzgerald is sleeping late to-day after his daring incursion of last night into the ball room jungle at The Breakers, where for several hours he mingled fearlessly with scores of the idle and the busy rich, narrowly escaping on several occasions from being taken for a multi-millionaire himself and treated as such. The Mayor really was the belle of the ball and was easily distinguished from the others on the floor by the several billion particles of confetti which covered his garments.

At midnight the Mayor was the victim of an old confederate joke. A few moments before the fated hour struck all those "In the know" hastened to seek shelter under the balconies of the ball room, but Mayor Fitzgerald and the other innocents remained in the centre of the floor, the Mayor holding a couple of rolls of ribbon streamers ready to bombard his friends, when suddenly the people in the balconies let loose a deluge of confetti, the Mayor being the principal target.

Maynard Gets His.

"You look like a regular bridegroom after a rice shower," exclaimed "Joe" Maynard, as the Mayor made a dash for the shelter of the balcony to escape another shower.

"Just for that, take that," replied the Mayor, as he skillfully caressed the chairman of the city committee in glittering coils of ribbon.

"That was the greatest ball I ever saw," said the Mayor. "Just think of the millions and millions of dollars represented on that floor, not alone in the jewels and dresses, but in the capitalists who stand for so much. All you have to do is to put out your finger and you are plotting out a millionaire."

Braves Rough Surf.

The surf was very rough earlier in the day, but the Mayor and his daughter, Rose, breasted the tide and then went up to the casino, where some fine dives brought them applause. Miss Fitzgerald is a fine swimmer and a nice up and down the pool while two of three hundred people looked on and applauded found the Mayor the winner only after a decided spurt at the end of the race.

After lunch the Mayor and his party watched the athletic contests on the baseball park, and the Mayor's enthusiasm in the first event showed his keen appreciation. He was asked to act as official timer and to come out on the field. He accepted the offer and announced the time for each event after that.

DUMA LEANS TO JEWS' FREEDOM

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 23.—The Duma by a vote of 208 to 158 has declined to express an opinion for or against the bill providing for the abolition of the Jewish pale, which was introduced last Summer, but referred the bill to the committee on the inviolability of person, to make a report.

The bill, which favors giving to Jews the right of unrestricted residence in Russia, originally was supported by 103 members of the Opposition and Centers. Jewish circles are greatly pleased at the progress made here. The bill will undoubtedly undergo restrictive amendments in committee, but a great point was gained in the support of the Octobrists, and it is considered that the bill will ultimately pass the council of the Empire if Premier Stolypin supports it.

Characteristic speeches were made by the peculiar members in defense of the Jews. One said that Taurida province was in a prosperous condition, indicating that the Jewish element was desirable.

RAPS FOOTBALL AND POLITICS

PORTLAND, Me., Feb. 23.—American heiresses who wed titled foreigners, American quarters abroad, football as played in America and American politics were scored by Professor Henry S. Nash of the Episcopal Theological Seminary at Cambridge, Mass., in an address before the Sons of the American Revolution here.

These are some of the things he said:

"The marriage of American girls to titled Europeans is brutal barter and disgraceful to both sides.

"American colonies abroad are the most rotten in the world.

"Football is dishonest. Rulemakers formulate rules, 'return to their colleges and teach how to violate them.

"I have been filled with shame at the disgraceful things that have happened in politics and brought our country into disgrace abroad."

MUST KEEP NAVY SAYS IRELAND

PEORIA, Feb. 23.—Archbishop Ireland does not believe that the time for international peace has arrived. He made this plain in no uncertain terms before a banquet of the Civic Coeur Club here.

"To-day the nation which dismantles its ships puts itself to gross humiliation and danger of fatal disaster," he asserted.

John Barrett, director of the Bureau of American Republics, outlined his plans with regard to the Panama Canal. He asserted that now was the time to begin fixing toll rates.

300 NOW ILL IN PORTSMOUTH

PORTSMOUTH, Feb. 23.—With three hundred cases of measles in this city and the epidemic continuing to spread among the children, the Board of Health has ordered all public, private and Sunday schools closed for a period of two weeks, and instructed the managers and others in charge of all places of public assembly to exclude all children.

The epidemic is spreading so rapidly that it is feared the number of cases will exceed the number reported in the epidemic of 1907, when 500 were recorded.

"FOREIGN NIGHTS" IN TECH PROGRAM

A novel program has been announced by the Cosmopolitan Club of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology for a series of "Foreign Nights" to be given this term at the Tech Union on Trinity place. The program includes these entertainments:

British Night, Feb. 25; Chinese Night, March 11; American Night, March 25; French Night, April 8; Japanese Night, April 27; German and Ottoman Night, May 13.

LODGE PLANS TO RUSH TREATY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Senator Lodge plans to force the new Japan treaty through the Senate to-day, regardless of the telegram of protest that has come to the President from the State of California.

Lodge tried to rush the treaty through without the members of the Senate really knowing what is in the treaty. The treaty had not been printed for the benefit of the Senate and copies of the treaty were not available.

Strange enough the Pacific Coast Senators made no objection. It was said that they were satisfied to leave the question of insubjection to the honor of the Japanese government.

Declare It Only Temporary.

Whether the feeling back home will here any influence upon the California Senators—and they have already heard from home—remains to be seen. The report was circulated by the friends of the administration to-day that the new treaty was but a temporary one, to last six months, and that a permanent treaty would then be made. Just why a temporary treaty is necessary when the old one has a year to run yet was not explained.

Had it not been for Senator Hale—and objection came from him as a surprise—the treaty would probably have gone through as Senator Lodge planned. Hale's action irritated Lodge so much that they spoke coldly to each other. Hale, it developed did not like the reciprocity feature of the treaty, it being opposed to his idea of protection.

Lodge Exhibits Much Feeling.

Considerable feeling was exhibited by Mr. Lodge in answering the Maine senator's criticisms. It had been expected there would be some opposition from Pacific coast Senators because of the elimination from the new treaty of all reference to the immigration of laborers, as covered by the existing treaty of 1894, which the new convention is intended to supersede. The Western Senators, however, offered no arguments against ratification beyond demanding time in which to obtain an understanding of its provisions.

No fault was expressed by Senator Hale with the immigration features, but he charged it involved reciprocity with Japan as objectionable to orthodox protectionists as that contemplated in the reciprocity agreement with Canada.

Mr. Hale's comment aroused great interest. On every side Senators who had been disposed to accept without question the report of the committee on foreign relations, pressed him for explanation. In a display of sarcasm Mr. Hale told his colleagues that they would do well to "take nothing for granted" since the Canadian agreement was brought into being.

WHAT CAUSES MANY BAD COMPLEXIONS

Mrs. Mae Martyn, the noted writer on health and beauty for the Los Angeles Times, recently said:

"Most muddy and spotted complexions are caused by the pores of the skin becoming clogged. Keep the skin clean and avoid the use of face powder, which fills up the pores. If women only would use a good lotion instead of powder they would be better off."

Mrs. Martyn added that a splendid and inexpensive lotion can be made by dissolving 4 ounces of spurmax in ½ pint of hot water, then adding 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. She says this lotion is better than any powder, as it clears and whitens the skin, besides making it soft, velvety and youthful. It does not rub off easily like powder and has been found excellent as a protection against chapping, cold winds, and for treating cold sores.

J. A. BLAKE TO HOLD MASON'S TEMPLE FUND

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Feb. 23.—J. A. Blake, of Massachusetts, has been chosen treasurer of a Masonic memorial association just formed to plan a National Masonic Temple here in honor of George Washington. The association was formed at a two day meeting of the Washington-Alexandria lodge of Masons and will receive February 22 until the temple is completed. President Taft was a guest at the meeting.

PIERCE STATUE PLAN HISSED

CONCORD, N. H., Feb. 23.—Hisses were mingled with applause in the House of Representatives as Franklin Pierce, the only son of New Hampshire who ever reached the office of President of the United States, was denounced as "a traitor to his country."

The bitterness of a controversy, which has divided the State for more than half a century, was revived as the result of the report of the committee on public improvements upon a bill to appropriate $25,000 for the erection of a statue to Pierce in the State House grounds. The majority reported against the bill, while a minority report favored it.

This Prescription Knocks Rheumatism

The only logical treatment for rheumatism is through the blood. A prescription which has recently proved wonderfully effective in hospital work is the following. Any druggist has the ingredients or will quickly get them for you. Any one can mix them. "One ounce compound syrup of Sarsaparilla, one ounce Toris compound, half pint first-class whiskey." These to be mixed and used in tablespoon doses before each meal and at bedtime. This cured thousands here last Winter. It relieves immediately.

Not only will it eradicate rheumatism quickly, but it is a splendid system builder and soon restores appetite and vitality. Many persons troubled with rheumatism would not be without a bottle of this mixture on hand at all times.

3 TAKEN FOR SHOP BREAKS

Peter McDonough, twenty-two; James J. Mahar, nineteen, both of whom, the police say, live in a lodging house at No. 1A Staniford street, and Alexander Lounie, thirty, said to live at No. 5 Park street, Charlestown, were arrested early to-day by Patrolmen Butler and Miller of the Lagrange street station. They are charged with breaking and entering the building at No. 86 Court street and stealing razors and other barber's tools from the shop of Timothy Moriarty on the second floor, and clothing from the tailor shop of August H. Lindow on the third floor.

The building was broken into last Saturday night and since that time the police have had men in plain clothes throughout the business district.

The police of the Joy street station were then notified and went to the lodging house at No. 1A Staniford street, where they found McDonough in bed, and in the room a quantity of mouthpieces and other parts of musical instruments said to have been stolen from a manufacturer at No. 62 Sudbury street three weeks ago, and several of the barber's implements said to have been taken from the barber shop of Timothy Moriarty at 86 Court street last Saturday night. A bit-stock, screw-driver and jimmy were also found in the room, and the police think that the three men are responsible for several other breaks that have been made in the business district during the last few weeks. The prisoners were turned over to the police at the Joy street station.

POLICE ASK RAISE.

Members of the Wakefield police department are out for an increase in pay. They want a raise from $2.25 a day to $2.75.

NEW SUMMER HARBINGER HERE

Seems kind of summery, anyway. Quite a little so-today.

But out at Harvard campus—beg pardon, "the Yard"—there's a real harbinger of the season when Old Sol shines resplendent and hot.

One of those fellows who shows college men how to earn enough in a vacation selling books to keep one for the rest of their lives, provided they don't get killed on the job, is over in Cambridge. He has established a real recruiting office and it is averred that he has already enlisted quite a large army of volunteers to invade the Middle West this Summer, take orders for encyclopedias and instructing volumes and incidentally coin enough dollars to pay their tuition and board next Fall.

"The Man With the Talk" also was once a book agent himself—just walked right through the gate and opened up and had the boys how it did—but fish quick while the sun shone hottest. He told them all that this book one means mentioned, as this isn't any free ads in the hands of one of his men—but Summer was sold 1,000 times in forty days, which is thirty books a day and going some.

In any event, Author of the Rah-Rah boys want to be book agents or not this Summer, even if they haven't any life insurance, it all goes to show that there will be an end to Winter, as there is to all other things, and that we shall pass through the le—ninonial period into warmer times.

MILLIONAIRE'S LETTERS TO POOR GIRL READ

MISS GRUNSPAN'S SAD STORY OF WALLING'S LOVE TOLD IN NEW YORK COURT.

Well known among Boston socialists where he was an active worker several years ago and as a Harvard Law School graduate, William English Walling, the rich young dilettante Socialist who has taken the grit in New York today as he heard Miss Bertha Grunspan, an exceptionally pretty Hunter College woman of twenty-three years, tell her story to the jury which is hearing her action against him to recover $100,000 for breach of promise.

Walling is the grandson of William H. English, who was a candidate for Vice President when General Hancock was the national Democratic candidate for President in 1880.

The pretty plaintiff is a petite brunette with big, black, pansy-like eyes which show with indignation as she recites her story of disappointment and despair. Her voice and then instantly melt in tears as she or her lawyer refers to the letters she regarded either in her memory or letters which passed between Walling and herself.

A "Parlor Socialist."

Walling belongs to that group of socialists known here as "parlor Socialists," or the enemies of Karl Marx and his theories of political economy. More than that, Red, but who seem to have liked novelties, are J. G. Phelps Stokes, the millionaire who made Rose Pastor a Cinderella story when she married a son of Stokes.

The fact that Walling has written several book advocating Socialism, was arrested in 1907 with his wife in Russia on suspected revolutionary activities and upon inquiry by the United States secretary of State, has given him high standing in the Socialist movement—how high, the fiery orators of Austrial themselves do not admit, for its good.

Walling's wife was Miss Anna Strunsky and she was named in the suit for divorce brought by Jack London's first wife against that talented writer and many other parlor Socialists. The case recalls that of Professor George D. Herron, another dilettante Socialist, who married Miss Rand, a very rich society woman.

It was charged that he bought his free dom from his first wife for $50,000.

Jack London Appears.

The present Mrs. Walling, in collaboration with Jack London, gained a literary rating for her series of "The Kempton-Wace Letters," which were several degrees higher in temperature than Mrs. Glyn dared to put into her "Three Weeks."

It was generally believed when Mrs. London sued for her divorce that Jack meant to make Anna Strunsky his second wife. But recently that as in much else Jack London changed his mind if he had ever intended such an alliance and married another.

While all this was going on, according to Miss Grunspan, she was having her painful and later heart-breaking experience with William English Walling. She traveled in Europe with him as "Mrs. Walling" and in a letter to relatives in Boston indicated her to believe that, as the result of the poor boy's death, a marriage ceremony was wholly a formality. Never-the-less she regarded herself as his wife even that little formality complied with later.

After separation of some weeks she accidentally met Walling in the Public Library with Anna Strunsky and Walling told her he had married Anna "because she was a Socialist and he found her a better Socialist."

"But as did not love her at all," Miss Grunspan says as she catches the thread of her story between sobs. She said Walling rose off in a rage with Miss Grunspan, protesting that he loved her, for as they were driven through the streets.

Well Known in Boston.

These several divorce proceedings, which may or may not have any connection with the activities of the Socialists toward maintaining an ever existing institution, are pointed to by Socialists, who say that these are exact examples of what will be gained if ever long for divorce laws prevail.

Socialists reply that this is nonsense, that the same equality and freedom will be unquestionable in every sense and respect the present institutions of home and marriage. They offer in prediction that cases of divorce and breach of promise no greater than what they call "the exploited life" for every one like the Walling-Grunspan-Strunsky-London affair.

Walling is the son of Dr. Dillonghby Walling, a graduate of Douglas of Chicago. He graduated from the University of Chicago in 1897 and received a bachelor's degree. Later he graduated from Harvard Law School. He is thirty-six years old.

Walling is well known in Boston. As for back at 1895 he helped to organize the Women's Trade Union League in Faneuil Hall. He has written widely on American and labor conditions, has studied parallel orders in Europe. Walling had charge of the investigation of the "American trade unionists and was unqualifiedly strong with non-Socialist labor leaders like Jacob Mitchell and Samuel Gompers. When he was arrested in Russia they demanded everything short of war against the Czar for Walling's quick liberation and probably hurried the Secretary of State's request to the Russian police to give a reason.

"Both Gay and Serious."

Here are some of the letters read by Miss Grunspan and her lawyer in court:

Miss Grunspan reading love letters in court.

"Your two letters, my dear," Walling wrote to her, "were like two beautiful statuettes that one buys for their combined harmony or rather like two beautiful poems of Milton, our greatest poet after Shakespeare. Well, I have always said that what I loved in you was that you are both gay and serious.

"I shall speak freely of love. I have always thought much more of it, but I never spoken of it to any one. Either the word be sacred to me or I do not feel what others feel. I can say that you have found that you are more in my thoughts and more in my heart than any other woman has ever been. I think, of your tastes, of your characters, of your future. I am happy when you are happy and sad when you are sad. Only I cannot say that I cannot live without you. And I hope that I shall never feel that way toward anyone else.

"It is this side of me that you do not understand at all and you have exaggerated of that which you have understood. Your life has been and will be beautiful, mine will be that which you have offered you. You think that I shall change? In that case I would like to know how much. For I have not my interests in life. I love the world with all my heart and with all my soul, as one of our poets (Novalis) has said—but I regard love any single being in the same sense—neither myself nor another, and I should feel myself a coward if I did."

An "Egotistic Coward."

The young girl who had trusted Walling sufficiently to trust with him as "Mrs. Walling" for many days during their journey to Russia and return had written him imploringly for assurances that his love was not growing cold. He referred to this "weakness of hers" in these words:

"Surely I am sympathetic and weigh each of your words but you can rest quiet yourself. If one does not encourage our weaknesses—ever to me—but horribly dangerous, for you. These bad, terrible words—death or marriage. Everything else is good in your last letter."

In reply to Walling's declaration that he loved his "cause" so well that he could never love any woman as his wife, the seventeen-year-old girl in Paris made this reply:

"I have loved you with all my strength with all my heart. If I have had weaknesses it was only for you. Be just, then, to me. Let me continue to love and suffer for you. When one we love is far away and a girl has done so much for him, what is there left for her to do, if he no longer loves her—a love life or death? I suffer much from your absence.

"I, too, have my ambition. But when all I bore I want my love unprotected always, not repulsed. I am unwilling to change your ideas, but this, I think. The man who loves no one but himself is an egotistic coward."

"From the one who loves you—who will always love you—ANNA."

Called "Ugly Monkey."

The interpreter had to explain some of the endearing terms used by Miss Grunspan in her letters, among them was "Tzi Monkey," and "Curly Wolf." In spite of their strangeness, Justice Giegerich was reassured they throbbed with passionate devotion.

Some of the letters ran:

"My hands are trembling. I wish I could write more, but I have not the strength, ugly monkey. According to your wishes I am not working, nor am I eating, because life away from you is impossible. My sufferings are great and you are the cause. But one, I think of you constantly. Your image is always with me. I cried a little while on your pillow last night. Do as you think best, for everything you do is right. ANNA."

"My Dearest—Your letter this morning was most sweet—more so than we expected. First you gave me just a little corner of your heart; now you have given it more. I don't know just how much you have given me, but I know that a little of your love is more than most women give altogether. Write quickly and banish this sadness before I see you.

"ENGLISH."

WALKER PLAN IS APPROVED

Editor of AMERICAN:

It is not easy for the mass of the people to follow the proceedings at the State house, or to appreciate the relative standing of the one thousand to fifteen hundred bills which are annually presented for consideration and action. It seems desirable, therefore, to explain the force of the great victory which has just been achieved.

It is well known that the State expenditures have very largely increased within a few years, compelling a resort to new methods of taxation, and beyond that increasing debt, which threatens very seriously the prosperity of the State, and with more than doubtful advantage to the people at large, there has been no serious attempt to preserve a balance between income and outgo. The committees of ways and means have formerly exercised a large an oversight in this direction, but it has passed beyond their control, and separate schemes are forced through upon grounds of supposed simple expediency, while there is more than a suspicion that the general administration is not based either upon economy or a due sense of proportion.

Walker's Effective Stand.

The Governor, as representing the whole State and the administration, is the natural guardian. But, except for a practically hopeless veto, he has no power to control the government for which he is nominally responsible, while the Legislature not only keeps in the hands of the purse strings, but blocks all effective oversight and control.

The first effective stand against this procedure has been made by the Speaker, Hon. Joseph Walker, with a bill authorizing the Governor, on his own responsibility, to appoint one or more experts to investigate any bill pending before the Legislature, with the time-honored plea that the Legislature has the absolute control of expenditure, and that any interference by the Governor, outside of a veto, is unconstitutional. The speaker left the chair and in a brief speech stated the case so plainly that the House, indifferent to its credit, passed the bill by a nearly unanimous vote. The bill went to the Senate, but unfortunately Mr. Walker could not speak there. The old-time methods were brought to bear in an amendment, that to a chief investigating expert, appointed by the Governor, should be added the vote or chairmen of the House and Senate committees of ways and means, to which Mr. Walker rejoined, in a public statement, that these two members of the Legislature, being a majority, could outvote and checkmate the Governor's agent at every turn.

A committee of conference then met, the Senate receded, and Mr. Walker's bill was passed and become a law. What its results may be time will show, but the people will do well to keep a careful trial. Joseph Walker is the first to propose a practical remedy for a disease, wide and affecting, with similar manifestations, in every State in the Union, and that in doing this he has risen above the ties of party.

BUSINESS FINE, SAY AUTO MEN

By J. C. KERRISON.

Automobile flow yesterday reminded the old timer of the days of long ago, when the owners made it a point to drive each of the dealers in the city, thereby ushering in the new riding seasons and looking over the models that appealed to them. Yesterday it was a case of looking over motor cars and talking over old times. The great majority of the dealers kept open house and incidentally did some business; in fact, if the statements made up and down the Rialto be true, yesterday was the greatest individual day for bona fide sales that has been experienced by the dealers as a body for this season. While the majority of the places were open, only two, the Cadillac and the Pullo, made any pretensions of observing to an official manner the birthday of the Father of His Country. Both these establishments were appropriately and appropriately decorated for the occasion.

* * *

The motor truck parade of the afternoon caused considerable favorable comment, and served to once again impress the business man with the value and efficiency of the motor trucks. While it was a parade of but one make of trucks the Mack, it served the purpose of developing general interest, which is beneficial to every dealer in motor trucks or to any one particular dealer. The parade was an eminent success. The twenty trucks, each loaded with goods from the house which controls the trucks, made a most imposing appearance as they drove over the long route, taking some four hours to the task. These trucks were in the main owned by private individuals, and are in constant daily use, so that the performance of yesterday was only that which they accomplish six days out of every seven, and it was not made possible by any special tuning up; a demonstration which is certainly valuable to the business man.

Frank J. Tyler of the Maxwell Briscoe Company is one of those dyed in the wool who show, as besides being a leader in the motor world, he is decidedly interested in privately owning a powerful and capable aeroplane, in which he has made more than one flight.

MRS. M'KIM TO MEET VANDERBILT ABROAD

LONDON, Feb. 23.—The report has just reached London that the beautiful Mrs. Smith Hollins McKim, whose cash settlement to prevent annoying suits by her former husband, was read with great interest here, is soon to come to Europe to wed Alfred G. Vanderbilt.

When an American representative saw Mr. Vanderbilt at Gloucester House, in Park Lane, where he has engaged elegant apartments, he was asked about the story of his engagement to the pretty New York society woman.

Mr. Vanderbilt, who attended the Langford-Lang bout with Baron Auckland and a party of English nobility, was interested about the details of the settlement between the McKims. But when pressed for a reply to the story of his engagement he closed the interview.

"Really I cannot discuss the subject," declared the young multi-millionaire sportsman as he turned away. He only shook his head and threw his lips tightly together when pressed for something more definite.

Before his arrival in London three days ago, the young American has spent several hours in close conference with Welsh Ware, reputed to be the most astute English solicitor. Questioned today, Mr. Ware said:

"The future plans of Mr. Vanderbilt are at present undefined. They have not been settled."

The solicitor was then asked to make public the facts about the report of an engagement between Mr. Vanderbilt and the former wife of Dr. McKim.

"I cannot discuss the case of Mrs. McKim—emphatically not," said Mr. Ware.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—The AMERICAN was informed today that Mrs. Margaret Emerson McKim is still in this country, and that she spent last night in "Arvedo," the country home of her father, Captain Jorge Emerson, just outside of Georgetown, S. C.

Society circles abroad and throughout the East and South are eagerly waiting for the expected announcement of an engagement between Mr. Vanderbilt and the beautiful divorcee.

There came a development at noon yesterday which started the social leaders and caused renewed speculation. It was the sailing of Mrs. George Law, the wealthy and beautiful widow of the former street railway president, who had received such marked attention from Mr. Vanderbilt since her arrival in New York in November, for England on the Mauretania. She left hurriedly soon after the settlement had become public. At the Manhattan Hotel last night where Mrs. Law had been stopping, it was said that she had unexpectedly left town for a few days. After some time it was admitted that she had suddenly decided to sail for Europe.

She sailed on the Mauretania after hurried preparations. We don't know whether she sailed alone or not but she did not have a forwarding address. It was stated.

It is expected that she will go directly to London. It was recalled that young Mr. Vanderbilt was at the pier to greet the petite Mrs. Law when she reached New York early in the Winter, and that she has been much in her company of late.

Another interesting circumstance came to light that explained Alfred G. Vanderbilt's hasty departure for Europe about ten days ago. He learned that attorneys for Dr. McKim were seeking to serve him in a suit for the alienation of his wife's affection.

PUCCINI'S MANON IS ALL THROBS

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

Manon Lescaut was a very naughty girl whose adventures were set down in a novel by Abbe Prevost. Two great composers were moved by the book to write operas about her, and we have had them both performed at the Boston Opera House within a week.

Puccini's "Manon Lescaut" was sung last night for the first time, with Carmen Mells and Amadeo Bessi in the chief parts.

Massenet's "Manon" was given last Wednesday and repeated again on Monday.

Massenet is a Frenchman and he thought his conduct of Manon was rather amusing. His opera is what the French call operacomique.

Puccini saw the tragic side of Manon and wrote a seething, torrid, passionate opera.

We have them both. As the showman says, "You pays your money and you takes your choice."

Caruso was originally billed to sing Des Grieux in last night's opera, but about a week ago Caruso got sick. His appearance was cancelled and the box office people had the melancholy duty of offering to give the people's money back. Fortunately few took advantage of the offer and a very large audience was present last night. It soon became a nobly appreciative audience. There were curtain calls until the singers must have reduced their waist line several inches from bowing, and on both sides of the footlights everybody was happy.

Throbbing Love Music.

It was a very pleasurable performance. Conti conducted lovingly, passionately, like a patriotic Italian, while the Italian singers and chorus sang to the peril of their lungs. It seems funny to us, but it was intensely serious to them; they were showing that the Italian "Manon Lescaut" is a much better opera than the French "Manon."

The opera was magnificently staged, and its costuming and properties were the climax of elegance.

Puccini wrote "Manon Lescaut" some eighteen years ago. It was his first successful work and, in the opinion of many, his very finest opera. It is full of rich luscious melodies which are disgorging, throughout the first organization, and in his new last night. He received and deserved much applause for his efforts, for he is a very good tenor as tenors go. He is a chubby, fat person looking rip and he acts Des Grieux, the lover of Manon, very properly.

His voice is powerful and of good quality, although there is a stridency in his high notes which is not edifying, and there were times last night when poor Johnson almost got him into difficulties. He sang with the authority and musicianship of a leading tenor.

Carmen Mells has been wonderfully successful with Puccini parts. Her Tosca and Girl of the Golden West are fine characterizations, and her Manon is also notable. Mells has little talent for comedy and in the light scenes of the first two acts seemed ill at ease, but her singing from first to last was of a golden quality, and her tragic powers made the final scenes memorable.

Bessi's Lescaut is much better than he was in the French "Manon," where he sang the same role, but he is not distinguished even yet.

Desha Swartz sang her one song beautifully. Parvis and the Gerville are amusing, and the others in the cast did well.

2,500 AT KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS BALL

Twenty-five hundred attended the forty-first anniversary ball of Commonwealth Lodge 19, Knights of Pythias, held for the benefit of the sick and for the building fund at Symphony Hall. Governor Foss was represented by Major Robert L. Green, Captain S. W. Wise and Lieutenant H. B. Worthy. Other guests were Samuel Segar, first grand chancellor of Massachusetts and the oldest living past grand chancellor in the country; George E. Cleaves of Malden, grand chancellor; William A. Benjamin of North Cambridge, and Dr. Ralph Ellingwood of Boston, grand inner guard.

ALICE NIELSEN AT PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23.—Alice Nielsen, the prima donna soprano of the Boston Opera Company, appeared for the first time this season at the Metropolitan Opera House in this city last night. She sang the title role of Puccini's "Madame Butterfly" and the beauty, delicacy and splendid method of singing aroused the large audience to genuine enthusiasm. She aroused several curtain calls after the first act.

NEW PLAYS ON WAY TO BOSTON

There is to be another contents performance of "Madame X" at the Majestic Theatre. As the final week of the engagement approaches the seventy-fifth performance also draws near, and at next week's matinee Dorothy Donnelly will celebrate the event by presenting each woman in the audience with a gold lined silver bon bon box. This will be the second anniversary performance of "Madame X." the first being the distribution of swiss clocks a few weeks ago.

John Craig is planning to present the Yale Harvard prize play, "The End of the Bridge," at the Castle Square Theatre in indefinitely following the engagement of "Arms and the Man," which is to be next week's attraction. The students of both Harvard and Radcliffe Colleges are taking a deep interest in the coming production of Miss Florence Lincoln's prize play, and it will doubtless be a social as well as dramatic success.

Klaw & Lesser of "The Commuters" company were the original Miss Herring in America in "The Strange Adventures of Miss Brown," in which piece produced at the Standard Theatre, New York, December 2, 1907. Miss Lesser was also in the original production of "Hodge, Podge & Co.," which, when it was produced at Hoyt's theatre, New York, in 1900.

It is possible that theatre goers may have the unusual opportunity of attending an early morning matinee of "The Fourth Estate" now playing at the Shubert Theatre. While a definite date has been decided upon for the matinee it is understood principally for the workers on the morning newspapers of Chicago who would otherwise have been denied the opportunity of seeing the play whose power play over produced that has enjoyed success.

There will be but one change at the down town theatres next Monday. "The Girl of My Dreams" will move into the Colonial Theatre for an indefinite stay. Other changes will occur at the Castle Square Theatre, where Mr. Craig's company will give "Arms and the Man," and at the Grand Opera House, where "The Blind Girl" will be presented.

Plays announced for Monday, March 6, are as follows: "Sumurun" and "The Philosopher of the Apple Orchard," with Billie Burke, at the Hollis; "Marriage a la Carte," with Emmy Wehlen, at the Majestic; "Green Stockings," with Margaret Anglin, at the Tremont; "The Light Eternal" at the Globe; "Naughty Marietta," with Emma Trentini, at the Boston; and "Caught in Mid-Ocean" at the Grand Opera House.

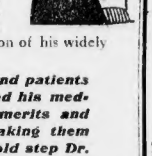
A BOLD STEP



To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so has published broad-cast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines.

Thus Dr. Pierce has taken his numerous patrons and patients into his full confidence. Thus too he has removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits and placed them in a class all by themselves by making them remedies OF KNOWN COMPOSITION. By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not afraid to subject them to the fullest scrutiny.

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver, biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed upon it in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same.

From this little book it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral agents or other poisonous or injurious agents and that they are made from native, medicinal roots of great value; also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, nervous, overworked, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed, long years ago, by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Squaw-Weed." Our knowledge of the uses of not a few of our most valuable native, medicinal plants was gained from the Indians.

As made up by improved and exact processes, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

K. O. BROWN HAS SHADE ON HOGAN

By HARRY D. CASHMAN.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Knockout Brown added one more scalp to his belt before the Madison A. C. in Sulzer's Harlem Casino, but he had the best battle of his young career. His opponent, Hogan of San Francisco, who came East with the handle of "One Round" Hogan tacked on to his name, left the ring a loser, but without any trailing colors. He put up a magnificent fight, but had to succumb to the slashing attack and strength of the New York lad.

It was strictly a one-handed battle; Brown's left versus Hogan's right, and the left won. Brown did not seem so awkward as in previous bouts. This was due perhaps to the fact that in Hogan he found a natural unschooled fighter of his own caliber.

The title of battle swayed half a dozen times. At first it seemed that the Californian had found the solution to Joe York's boxing mystery in a snappy right bolt to the jaw. A speedy finish seemed certain, but under prompting Brown came strong and put his opponent on the defensive.

Hogan displayed the cleaner and snappier punch, but what Knockout lacked in quality he more than made up in quantity.

It was computed that Hogan had Brown had weighed in at 6 o'clock, neither man making the boast at 133 pounds. Hogan was slightly heavier, it was said, the New Yorker being barely over 130 pounds, while San Francisco's representative was just inside the limit.

Hogan sported a green rosette on top of an American flag, which supported a pair of white silk trunks.

Brown wore the light blue trunks with the initials of the Boys' Club, which have done service to all his battles. Both looked fit and trained to the minute.

Brown did not start away with his usual dash. When he got his left by he found the Californian had developed a clever block for it. Of a sudden Hogan shot over a right to the jaw that floored the New Yorker, and he quickly followed it with a broadside from both hands. Knockout recoiled his arms and fell into a clinch, but soon righted himself.

In the second round Brown began to fathom the visitor's style and Hogan batted more cautiously, others were even and execution slow in this session, but the third more than made up for it. Brown threw himself off his feet by a missed swing as an opener, and Hogan was waiting for him as he came up.

Brown backed into a neutral corner and covered up for an instant. Then he broke forth with his slashing left and took the first decided lead. One went flush to the mid-section, and Hogan wilted. Brown pounced on him with two more lefts to the head and took the round.

Again in the fourth round Brown did most of the leading. Hogan made the mistake of waiting for his opponent to lead, trying to beat Knockout to the punch, which he seldom did. The clever San Francisco's representative was just inside the limit.

Brown did not start away with his usual dash. When he got his left by he found the Californian had developed a clever block for it. Of a sudden Hogan shot over a right to the jaw that floored the New Yorker, and he quickly followed it with a broadside from both hands. Knockout recoiled his arms and fell into a clinch, but soon righted himself.

In the second round Brown began to fathom the visitor's style and Hogan batted more cautiously, others were even and execution slow in this session, but the third

PACKEY TRIMS FRANK MADOLE

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23.—Frankie Madole of Pittsburg has yet to go some to be in Packey McFarland's class. The stockyards champion of Chicago easily outclassed the Pittsburg boy in their bout at the Americus A. C.

At no time during the six rounds did Madole have a chance. It was Packey first, last and all the time.

McFarland eased up after he found out that his opponent was easy, and so slow was Packey in his actions that the crowd booed him at the end of the fourth round. McFarland could undoubtedly have finished his opponent any time he felt like it.

McFarland was on top of Madole in every session, giving the latter not the semblance of a chance of getting set. Madole did good work at the start, but the hard punches which came his way in the opening round seemed to take all the fight out of him.

MORRIS FORCED TO STAND FOR A DRAW

MANCHESTER, N. H., Feb. 23.—Andy Morris of Boston put Jack Fitzgerald of Philadelphia down for the count in the first round of the main bout at the Queen City A. C., but Referee Allen, after giving Fitzgerald the "count out," thought that he had done a clever bit of acting, and so, after three minutes' rest, ordered Fitzgerald to fight or he would declare the bout no contest.

After resuming, Fitzgerald fought well, but Morris steadily beat him with terrific body blows. His treatment of Fitzgerald shows how numerous is the number of cross-country runners in Greater Boston. Means should be provided for fostering this splendid sport, soon.

IT NOW SURELY LOOKS AS IF THERE would be an international polo contest between America and England, with Meadowbrook meeting Hurlingham, the English champions, during the month of June. The desire for another series of matches to determine the world's polo championship, proves even greater for the English players than the coronation of King George V. and the games in this country the coming Summer will attract tremendous gatherings of sportsmen, and provide some of the greatest sport at polo that has ever been seen in the history of the game in this country.

THE HOLIDAY GATHERING AT THE Charles River speedway for the races between the crack trotters and pacers, owned by members of the Metropolitan Driving Club, was the largest seen on a local snowpath in years. While the failure of Reliance to meet Chief Wilkis was a great disappointment, it should be explained that Enos Phillips had taken his sleeper home to Swampscott and had assumed that the Winter racing was all over. There should be some fine racing again on Saturday.

THE SMART CONTEST ACROSS country, arranged by the Armory A. C., and witnessed by hundreds of spectators, shows how great is the interest in this form of sport, despite weather conditions that were far from the best. The surprising thing about Eric Bye's victory is the number of cross-country runners in Greater Boston. Means should be provided for fostering this splendid sport, soon.

SPEAKING OF SWELL ANSWERS TO queries, here's one that a St. Louis scribe pulled:

"No, inside ball is not the same as indoor ball. Indoor ball is outside ball played inside. Inside ball is also outside ball played inside, but there is a difference; also a distinction. For example, Babe Waddell can play outside ball inside, but he can't inside outside. See?"

THE WARMEST KIND OF FAREWELL is assured for John Collins, the Newton Upper Falls boy, who is about to leave Boston to join the advance guard of the Chicago White Sox for the trip to the training grounds at Mineral Wells, Texas. While there will be a hard contest between Collins, Jiggs Donohue, the old first sacker of the club, and Jones, a recruit, to see who will be the final custodian of the sack, it now appears that the odds are fully 3 to 1 in favor of Collins.

THERE IS GREAT INTEREST AMONG the fans in the fifteen-round bout between Al Delmont of this city and Young Ryson of Providence, next Monday night, which will determine pretty effectually the featherweight championship of New England. The bout is before the Rhode Island A. C. at Pawtucket. While Ryson rules as a warm favorite, there is a certainty of a rousing contest, and a big audience is already assured.

DILLON SHADES JIMMY GARDNER

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 23.—Jack Dillon of this city had a shade on Jimmy Gardner of Boston in their ten-round bout here. Both men were on their feet and fighting hard at the end of the bout.

Gardner had a clever defence and his ability to keep Dillon at long range kept him on even terms with Dillon in the earlier rounds.

Dillon, however, wore his opponent down and made a strong finish, which would have earned him the decision had one been given by the referee. The newspaper decision was in favor of Dillon.

Only one round could possibly have been awarded to Gardner, this being the fifth in which he used a repeated left jab to the face with effect.

Dillon's best round was the seventh, in which a slugging swing to the neck knocked Gardner off his feet, although he was up and ready for more in an instant. Again in the eighth Dillon landed a wicked right to the head which staggered the Boston boxer.

OVERALL BALKS AT CUBS TERMS

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—Orvie Overall, the big pitcher of the Cubs, may be missing from the ranks of the West sliders this season, and President Murphy has come to terms overall. Just at present, he one of the leading members of the Hold-Out Club.

Orville is in California, where he has spent the Winter and he isn't showing any inclination to come back to Chicago and join the club on the Spring trip. The Duke is said to be at daggers with Murphy over salary matters. It is after the strongest kind of kicking that Overall has been induced to pitch in the State and has not signed a contract for 1911. Overall has several headquarters today had it that Overall has been given a raise in salary and that he refuses flatly to sign this year for less money than he received last.

Murphy is of the opinion that Overall has not yet retired from baseball. He announced today that he would not take the Duke's refusal to sign as final. He will pay the following men as he made plans to do, other clubs, for the same money they received in 1910.

The reason for the prolongement by the Duke of the holdout of the Cubs is said to be based for a large degree from President Murphy's point of view on the belief that there is every reason to believe that the Giants, between the pennant and the stage to work settled amicably

BAY VIEW NINE AFTER HONORS

The Bay View nine of South Boston, one of the strongest semi-professional teams in the city last season, has reorganized for the coming season with even a stronger team and is out to meet the best nines in the state.

It is to be made a record last year that the team was well round of, having won sixty-seven out of the twenty-nine games that it played. Manager J. J. Logan, No. 27 Sixth street, South Boston, requests that all men who wish to play with the team call at headquarters on Saturday and Sunday.

Last year the battery was Logan, first base; McGraw, catcher, and Logan, pitcher. Merrill, left fielder, and McGraw and Logan in the middle.

McGraw and his pitcher to do work for the coming season between the pennant and the stage to work settled amicably calling the game off from above.

The boys are lining out stiff in practice and have benefited much by the cold weather. Besides the good looks that they can put up on paper they have the real goods when it comes to playing ball and they are going to make it hot for the fellows that oppose them.

M'GRAW MAPS OUT BASEBALL LINE-UP

ADDIE JOSS'S INJURY IS BROKEN LIGAMENT

TOLEDO, Feb. 23.—After an examination of the muscles and nerves of the elbow of the right arm of Addie Joss the Cleveland pitcher, by Dr. White, the trainer of the club, Joss states that the injury is a broken ligament.

"I feel sure in giving Joss vigorous treatment for a day, but whether his efforts will be successful is wholly problematical will not be known until Addie attempts to pitch a few days after he reaches the Springs next month.

Phillies Have Many Recruits in Training; Need a Good Start to Be in League Race

PROBABLE LINEUP.
Catchers—Dooin, Moran, Jacklitsch.
Pitchers—Earl Moore, Stack, Beebe, Rowan, Schultz.
First Base—Luderus.
Second Base—Knabe.
Third Base—Lobert.
Shortstop—Doolan.
Outfield—Magee, Titus, Paskert.

To Select From—Alexander, Bluter, Wilhelm, McBride, Weltzonough, Brennefield, Brennan, Cannell, Ewing, Weichmann, Schetter, Thomas, Walsh, Wherell, Lehr, Knight, Chalmers, Mayes, Mowrey, Miller, Bilger, Davis, Daniels, Crutcher.

Red Dooin crossed the plowed ground, picked through the tall grass, the slashings, the plowed forest and emerging into the hill grass on the other side picked a spear. What he has found is the way of talent in the far or talents of the backwoods remains to be seen. The players will report to Spring hall from Key West, Savannah, Lake Wilmington, York, Anderson, S. C., Kansas, Canton, Charlotte and other frontier posts and train a stiff set.

Mr. Dooin evidently knows a good deal and does not care a rap what kind of a reputation Charles W. Murphy, down the ground, lands, etc. But Murphy et al does not accept of the club or come at it. Dooin knows, even with Chicago on and does not like interference with the team of Philadelphia baseball.

The Phillies are to be made one of the most astounding trades of recent years. I believe it will be a success, but as a matter of fact Dooin and Griffith are willing. Each workers for men who were not entirely satisfied with their service. He let Grant, one of the best third basemen in the country, a dagger, a stylish hitter and a brilliant man, who cannot be spared. For this reason

Until is going to make a terrific effort to gain the championship and the idea that Dooin and Griffith made helped the Reds. Possibly it helped both teams.

Who Prospered in Deal?

Anyhow, there was something queer about the whole affair. Engel the alleged owner, helped his head off and announced it as he would block the trade, then one day withdrew in him and he smiled and said it was a good thing. For he'll from get to trade a triple play through Engel to Mowrey to Hermann. Anthony Wilhelm, on record, failed to Moran and McGuire and the Phillies secured Lobert, Paskert, Brown and Bresnahan.

Now Jed Lobert is a fine fellow a fine fielder, batting, earned run, a fine natural base runner and a good stroker but he's not a great third baseman. He doesn't cover within 35 points of Grant as a fielder and he's not nearly as good a thrower. Lobert would not have a chance at third in Philadelphia and Dooin knows it. But Dooin is a player and will get to it.

Beebe is one of those hard working, willing, honest players, who will give all he has to his club and never ask to be let called upon. He will be a good deal to give, but I predict he will develop into a good pitcher. He will win more in the long run.

Sherwood Magee will [illegible] in actions is one of the best hitters in the world and a fair fielder, a bit above the average. He is one of the most tremely loyal to [illegible] Fred Titus is practically certain of the right field job. Many people think Titus is [illegible] ball player. He does not show well on the field, but he is [illegible] Philadelphia could find for right field. A one sided hitter who does fairly well on the road is apt [illegible] Titus has acquired a mastery of the knuckler, which allows any one to take more than one [illegible] strike against that ball, while with right fielders unfamiliar with the [illegible] the hitters will take two, three, sometimes four bases on the same kind of hits. Titus comes up in seventy-seven games. Besides, he is a hard worker and very willing. Paskert, a 300 hitter acquired from the Reds, probably will fill Bates' old place.

Crandall, an outfielder secured from Williamsport, if reports are true, is trying hard to make all the outfields hustle to hold their honors. The fact that he led the Pacific League [illegible] batting [illegible] batting [illegible] shows that he is not [illegible] a player of [illegible]

Promising Pitching Recruits

There is one essential to a pennant winning team—and the Phillies have that essential in one pitcher who can be relied upon to win about 70 per cent. of his games and tackle the hard games in each series. Under proper conditions Earl Moore is that kind of a pitcher. He is one of the best in the world and his specialty is beating better clubs, especially the Cubs. The other day Dooin picked up a man whom I consider one of the finds of the season. That is Scotty Schultz, who was canned out of the University of Pennsylvania. Schultz was one of the leaders of the university pitchers. If he [illegible] may develop into as great a National League pitcher as he was a

NOW is the time to get your baseball education for the 1911 season.

The next few weeks will see all the major league teams in training for the coming pennant fights. Many veterans will be tried out by the various clubs and on the caliber of these recruits depends, to a large degree, what teams will battle to the world championship series.

It is hard for every baseball lover to get information about all the recruits and for this reason Hugh S. Fullerton is writing for the Boston AMERICAN a series of expert articles on the prospects of the National and American League teams which will give the fans a true line on what may be expected from the players of 1911.

Mr. Fullerton is conceded to be the world's foremost baseball critic. He has made a careful study of all the players who will be tried out by the major league teams and will tell AMERICAN readers daily for the next two weeks what may be expected of them. His articles will be without bias and will afford the best true line yet offered on the coming pennant races.

Claude Eclaire is frozen fast in the ice. Were it not for the fact that he has a rugged constitution, he would be a candidate for the morgue by this time, but our brave hero is no mollycoddle. Oh, look! Here comes Desperate Desmond with a saw. Is he going to rescue Claude? No, gentle reader, he is not.

The villain has sawed out the block of ice into which Claude is frozen and is taking it away, but that's no sign that he has decided to spare our hero's life. On the contrary, he is worried lest some one else might come along and get his victim out. The ice cutters are due on the job in a few minutes.

The cowardly cur is putting Claude in the ice house, where he is likely to remain until some time next summer, when the demand for ice will be greater than it is now. Whoever gets that particular hunk of ice will be a unfounded to find that it contains all that is mortal of that noble youth, Claude Eclaire.

But for once Desperate Desmond makes a mistake. Not being familiar with the internal arrangements of the ice house, he puts Claude on the chute leading to the chipped ice department. Even in the Winter time a great deal of chipped ice is used in places where liquid refreshments are dispensed—soda fountains, for instance.

Of course, when the chippers in the chipping department see Claude they know right away that he is not a cake of ice, and they do not slice him up as they might have done if they had been less intelligent. They give him a chance to explain, and when he has done so they immediately set him free.

Stopping only to borrow an ice boat, Claude starts in pursuit of Desperate Desmond, who is skating rapidly away from the scene of the crime with Rosamond by his side. Needless to say, Rosamond is going with the villain only because he has threatened to kill her if she does not. Full report of the race in to-morrow's pictures.

Philosophic Thoughts

By FRANCES L. GARSIDE

A GIRL'S idea of a poor, lonesome, neglected young man is one who is going through life without his initials embroidered on his clothes.

Young girls seem to think a great deal of matrimony, considering that the greatest joy in it is getting a cross baby to sleep.

We are never at loss for something to do if we take part in the quarrels of our kin.

There is never so much indignation when a baby howls at church as when it is a trifle uneasy at a theatre.

After a woman has found out what little money her husband makes, she begins to lose that awe of his office hero which she felt in the early days of her married life.

When a woman packs for a journey, she doesn't leave room for another pin in her valise; but a man will start off with his valise half empty, a thing no woman ever did.

Is lovelier far by night.

The fairy queen's best milliner
Made my glorious gown of gold,
But the moon she knitted my silvery scarf
With her silvery fingers cold.

The sun loves pomp and splendor,
He shines on my golden crown.
He makes my jewels sparkle
When I ride in state through town.

But the moon for a ring I wish her sent soon
On her silver, silvery throne,
Then I turn back on the pomp and state
And I dance for her alone.

A Thrilling Story of the Highbinders of San Francisco

The Shadow of Quong Lung

Mystery of the Orient Transplanted to America :: By Dr. C. W. Doyle

Copyright by C. W. Doyle

BEGIN THIS GREAT STORY TO-DAY.

These intensely interesting stories of plot and counterplot among the highbinders who rule the destinies of Chinatown are built around the personality of Quong Lung, the powerful tong leader, whose favor is sought and whose displeasure is dreaded on all sides. They are thrilling pictures of the life in San Francisco's great Chinese quarter.

The story which appears to-day tells of the doom of Ah Foon, and the way the death sentence is passed at a tong conclave.

Begin it to-day.

PART III.—DOOMED BY THE TONG

CHAPTER I.

Compliments Pass When Gentlefolk Meet

SOME of them sat about the room in various easy attitudes, smoking and talking at intervals of current events in Chinatown; while others wandered about in that aimless fashion that is so characteristic of the Chinaman when in ride of a house. They were the head men of one of the most important tongs of the Lee Yups, and they were awaiting the arrival of Quong Lung, without whom no business was ever transacted.

"Was ever pork so cheap?" exclaimed Lee Yup, the portly butcher of Dupont street. "And feed for the beast is extremely scarce by reason of the drought.

"Why, such fruit as one gathered from the dealers for the taking of it away last year is now being peddled at the doors of the White Devils south of Market street for two cents a pound! An honest man may not live in these days."

"And yet it is to be seen of all men that Lee Yup continues to wax fat," said Ah Foon, who was the bitter wag of the assembly. A momentary smile flickered on the faces of those present, and as suddenly went out. "But," he went on, "Lee Yup knows by the help of his household gods that many deaths will cause this year by reason of drought, and that many hogs will be roasted for the souls of the dead to the benefit of his purse, and so Foon, is not less beautiful than our dear Moy Yen?"

"As that cluster of stars yonder is by witness," answered Lee Yup dramatically, pointing to the completest miracle in the heavens—the wonder of Orion in California when the sky is clear and the north wind blows—"Lucy See is incomparable and—and—Ah Foon is thy debtor."

"Yes?"

"And yesterday I saw Lucy See and Ah Foon entering a place where pictures are made by the aid of the sun."

"So."

So I entered after they had left, and brought this her presentment for thee to see," and Lee Yup handed Quong Lung a picture.

"By the Great Gods she is most beautiful!" exclaimed Quong Lung, regarding the picture with head aslant in front of an illuminated window.

"And Ah Foon is hopelessly in thy debt?" suggested Lee Yup.

The Voice of the Tempter

"Yess," replied Quong Lung.

"And thou will need some one to take Moy Yen's place at thy establishment?"

"Mayhap."

"And, perchance, Ah Foon hath betrayed our tong."

"Ah! proceed," answered Quong Lung, somewhat impatiently flicking the ash off his cigar.

"And those who betray their tongs are liable to—death?" asked Lee Yup with a note of exultation in his voice.

"Yes," was the firm reply.

"Quong Lung, thou art a Great Reformer and Thinker; tell me, are there worse things than death by bludgeon and hatchet and revolver?"

"The Trail of my Shadow involveth many things, Lee Yup."

"Is the 'Civil Death' worse?"

"It might be made worse—at the suggestion of thy ingenuity, Lee Yup."

"My ingenuity hath already moved in the matter, my Chief; the laws of the tongs award the wives of traitors to the —the Strong."

"The Strong will attend to the matter forthwith," was Quong Lung's quiet assurance.

PART III. CHAPTER II.

Debtor and Creditor

THE next day Ah Foon presented himself at Quong Lung's store, at the bidding of the latter—for Quong Lung was accustomed to having his summons obeyed.

"Ah Foon," began the great man, "what hast thou to say in the matter of that twelve hundred dollars thou owest me?"

"The terms of thy note has become so great Quong Lung, that the wars of the tongs have come to an end; and law and order—thy law and order, to use thy phrase—now established in Chinatown. But, doubtless, the wicked will again assault thy supremacy, and my bureau will be needed to pay Lee Yup for service, by curing thy rewards for information."

"Meantime, as thou hast said, the wars of the tongs are at an end, and my agent in Hong Kong is clamorous for one thousand dollars. Read for thyself," and Quong Lung handed Ah Foon a letter and a bill of lading.

Having perused the papers, Ah Foon laid them on the table and said: "The world of our people is better than the bond of the White Devils, Quong Lung; the writing calleth for payment any time within the next six months. Why this haste on thy part to anticipate thy dues."

"Because it is the secret of my so great success, Ah Foon; and the payment of thy dues to me has become necessary to the course of my business—and my so great success."

"Thou hast other debtors, Quong Lung, with more available assets; why distress me, who will pay thee ere the season of the New Year?"

"Ah Foon's Assets.

"Nay, Ah Foon," returned Quong Lung, carelessly; "thou hast assets far more available—thine own phrase—than any of my so many debtors; assets far more available—and more valuable."

"Thou art merry in mood this morning, Quong Lung," answered the other, smiling complacently. "I am on the wrong side of my credit, and walk with the patience of the other man, as the White Devils say."

"And that is ended as far as I am concerned," said Quong Lung, arrogantly. "I demand a settlement—a settlement this very day."

"A bold creditor can put up with much flouting, if his credit is established, Quong Lung; but I am at the mercy, for my bureau is idle, and my luck in the lottery and at fantan hath vanished. My lord spake but now of my assets; will he enlighten me as to their nature?"

"They are worth not less than three thousand dollars, and are immediately available."

"Explain, Most Powerful."

Quong Lung wrote on a piece of paper and pushed it across the table to Ah Foon. The writing was in the form of a receipt, and ran thus:

"Received from Quong Lung the sum of three thousand dollars, being twelve hundred dollars due to him by me for moneys lent, and eighteen hundred dollars for the consideration herewith set forth—to wit:"

And there the document ended.

"But the consideration," Most Worshipful; what is it?" gasped Ah Foon.

"Before we come to that, I would first discuss another matter which will make it plain to thee that thou must sign this receipt before then."

"Most, Far Reacher?"

The Civil Death.

"Ay, must, Ah Foon, or undergo the 'Civil Death!' Thou hast betrayed thy tong, and art already dead unless thou compliest with my demands."

"I have betrayed my tong!" exclaimed Ah Foon, in a tone of horror.

"Yes, think," answered Quong Lung, in whispers and nine eyes that see things that have never been done, have ceased to see that thou hast betrayed thy tong." After a brief but significant pause, he went on: "Then, too, there are always witnesses at my service."

To be continued to-morrow.

BEAUTY QUESTIONS

By Mlle. La Jolie.

TO DEVELOP THE BUST

Dear Mademoiselle:

When I see girls to whom nature has generously given a beautiful figure I feel envy rising from envy. If there is anything you can recommend to build up my bust so that I may still gain the everlasting gratitude of MARY J.

You are not the only reader of my column who wishes to develop the bust, for I have had many letters, both from girls and young women, where the development has been retarded as well as from nothing worse the hideous new fashion and slenderness after the inner was worn.

I am glad to say there is an easy and effective means of relieving this condition and that is the prescription of Dr. Kelly, a woman physician, who made this formula herself, increasing her own bust measurement from a scant 32 inches to four inches and since prescribed it for her patients with almost invariable success.

This prescription is put up by the Dr. Kelly Co. and they tell me they will send a 30c treatment free of charge to any of my correspondents who will write them. Send 10c in stamps or silver, for distribution expense, to the Dr. Kelly Co., Dept. 27 B. C., Buffalo, N. Y., and I am sure you will be greatly pleased with the result of the treatment they will send you. This acts on the bust only, and does not increase the hips or other measurements, thereby giving the greatest development that is demanded by the present mode, but keeping the balance of the figure slender.

R&G CORSETS

The actress considers her corset a most important part of her wardrobe. It must not only make the utmost of her figure, but permit of absolute freedom and suppleness of movement.

That is why the R&G is worn by the leading stars—on the stage and off.

"My gowns love R&G Corsets, and so do I, for they make us both look and feel just right. They are so graceful and so comfortable."

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

As the market stands now the technical position is a strong one in consequence of the short selling which has occurred within the last few days.

$ $ $

Another sign of the times. The Imperial Bank of Austria has reduced its rate from 4½ to 4 per cent.

$ $ $

No change was made in the Bank of England's discount from the 3½ per cent. rate. The bank's proportion of reserve to liabilities declined eight-tenths of one per cent. during the week and stands at 51.90 per cent.

$ $ $

The Interstate Commerce Commission held an all-day session yesterday, so there is a possibility that the rate decision may be handed down today.

$ $ $

As there is nervousness or apprehension in view of what the near future may bring forth, many holders of stocks are cautious, naturally, and this is why stop loss orders are so popular. This has the effect of making the market vulnerable for the time, no matter whether the short interest is an extended one or not.

$ $ $

Many buyers of stocks have resorted to the use of stop loss orders a point or two below the prevailing level, and this tends to accentuate, but not possibly unduly, in case of a sudden bear raid these orders might be caught, and this involuntary or mechanical selling might have a very bad effect, temporarily at least.

For the long pull many of the inactives are just the thing for the conservative trader. As a rule, they move slowly, but the prospect of loss is minimized. When the trend of the market is upward they move in an encouraging way, advancing by small fractions, and showing a profit at the end of each week.

Wabash February earnings, it is estimated, will show a 5 per cent. decrease, with a larger net decrease. Operating conditions this month are better than a year ago, but the present this Winter. A high official says "Business of all kinds, except coal, is fairly good, and looking better than recently if railway conditions are working around in the right direction, and after April our earnings ought to show a much better showing on account of the coal strike last year."

$ $ $

Calumet & Hecla officials make their side of the merger case very strong, and also set forth strong arguments in its favor. From some points of view, perhaps, the time is not entirely propitious. Copper, the world, is selling abnormally low and there is no market for securities. If the plan is postponed to a time when the metal is say 15½ cents a pound and there is an active and stronger market for copper shares, there would be more of the difficulties of the plan which is now heard. To say the least Calumet & Hecla has a stubborn fight on its hands with likelihood that the case will be fixed up in the courts for a long time before the consolidation goes through. Official action on the merger will be taken by the various companies March 7.

The Alberta Railway and Irrigation Company has agreed to the plan to lease itself to the Canadian Pacific. Railway Company all of the company's undertakings in return for a guarantee annuity of 6 per cent. on its capital stock.

In the steel manufacturing districts of Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio confidence is expressed that improvement in the steel situation will continue, although no boom is expected. Most manufacturers look for a moderate increase, with net profits well above dividend requirements.

The United Metals Selling Co. has succeeded in reducing its accumulation of copper, which was recently estimated at between 50,000,000 and 60,000,000 pounds, offering sales at 12½ cents. At the moment it considers itself in a comfortable position as to stocks. The market for electrolytic, 99 days, has been maintained at the larger sellers at 12½ cents. Dealers who make the market for carload lots have followed this figure, but their sales in the aggregate constitute no important factor.

URGE SUBWAY ON RIVERBANK

Lucius Tuttle, former president of the Boston & Maine and a committee of forty-eight citizens have joined the movement for the immediate construction of the Riverbank subway instead of the proposed Boylston-street tunnel.

"The Riverbank subway," they say in a public statement, "could be completed and in operation within two years from this time. More than 30,000 people will be saved more than twenty minutes each per day by the construction of this subway."

A Boylston street subway, they assert, would provide only an indirect route across the city, while Riverbank will provide the most direct route possible from the west to Park street, the South station and South Boston.

They cite authority to show that the Riverbank subway will not injure the foundation piles of the Back Bay and that it will not cause residents on the water side of Beacon street to be disturbed by noise and vibrations.

No practical exit has been found for the Boylston street subway, they say, and they express a doubt whether the Boston Elevated "would accept a subway so enormously expensive," with the result that the public would continue to be crowded into Boylston street and delayed in its passage on the surface thereof for ten or fifteen years longer."

Climate Failed—Medicine Cured.

It has been abundantly shown that rest, fresh air and good food do help many persons suffering from Tuberculosis. But, to be really honest, it must be admitted that the disease is seldom more than "arrested." Something more is needed.

Eckman's Alterative is a medicine made for the cure of Tuberculosis. It has cured this disease again and again. Often these cures have been effected where the surroundings were not ideal, where no intelligent care was taken of the patient, where money was scarce; good food and good cooking unusual—yet cures resulted. Now we argue and urge that Eckman's Alterative should be used in every case of Tuberculosis, in addition to good, nourishing food, and fresh air, which we all need.

The facts—the evidence of cures that have been made—are interesting reading. A remarkable cure follows:

"Weldon, Ill.

"Gentlemen: Through Eckman's Alterative I have been saved from a premature grave, and feel that I may benefit suffering humanity, I take pleasure in writing you a brief history of my sickness, which you are at liberty to use.

"On December 14, 1904, I was taken with typhoid pneumonia. My lungs became very much affected; my sputum was examined and Tuberculosis Bacilli were found. The first of May, 1905, I was advised to go to North Texas. While there I was alone in my room, lung broke and discharged. I grew very weak and was very much emaciated. My doctor informed me that I must go to Colorado as quickly as possible. I left Texas June 27, and arrived in Canon City June 3rd, very feeble. After living there a week, my health was such that I could do nothing except sit, or walk around a little. I was induced to go to Colorado Springs, where I remained for a period of five months. Then I was advised to go to Manitou or Pueblo. There either one of my physicians would have me go. I left July 1 began taking Eckman's wonderful remedy, for Consumption, it being very highly recommended by my physicians. To-day I am well and strong. To-day I am well and strong. I am stout and well and can do any kind of work that any man could do. I have not an ache or pain in my lungs, eat well, sleep well, and never cough. I could be glad to have any one interested write me personally. Respectfully yours, ARTHUR WEBB.

Eckman's Alterative cures Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Affections. For sale at all druggists. Prepared by Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa. Send for additional testimonials.

To Our Patrons and the Public:

We regret that we have been unable to furnish taxi-cab service during the past thirty-six hours, owing to the strike of our drivers. The company recently discharged two of its drivers for using abusive and uncivil language to passengers. The drivers now demand unconditional reinstatement of these men, and have struck to secure this end. These employees were discharged only after a careful consideration of their cases by officials of the company, and, though the company is at all times willing to reconsider such cases, it has declined to reinstate these men unless it is made to appear in some proper way that their discharges were not justified. We believe that our duty to the public requires us to render the best service of which we are capable, and particularly to employ only chauffeurs who can be relied upon to treat patrons with civility and courtesy under all circumstances. In this policy we expect public approval and support.

HILL URGES RECIPROCITY

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 23.—Discussing an attack made upon him recently in a letter from a North Dakota farmer, read in the United States Senate Tuesday, James J. Hill, chairman of the Great Northern Railway, says:

"The pending reciprocity treaty before Congress is the most important this country has had before it since the Civil War. If, after having Canada waiting forty years, we turn her down again, our country will suffer, and one of the hardest hit of our industries will be that of wheat raising.

"Suppose that Canada joins the imperial federation of English colonies, as is proposed. A reasonable differential that England might impose upon our wheat would be 15 cents a bushel, and that would mean our wheat growers would get for their whole product lowered that much per bushel in value. Great Britain would take over practically all of the $290,000,000 in round numbers that Canada now pays for our manufactured articles, then add the six hundred and more millions we export to Great Britain, and we find that, if we fail to adopt a reciprocity agreement with Canada and drive it to an imperial federation, we are jeopardizing our wheat crop annually, say 15 cents per bushel, and at the same time we are losing $800,000,000 of export business in England and Canada.

Business Success Through Publicity

No. 60

The Value of an Open Mind

A youth not so long ago began his business career as office boy in a tannery. He kept his eyes and his ears open, and in a short while what he didn't know about leather and tanning wasn't worth knowing. He concluded he wanted a broader field and secured a position traveling for a leather novelty house.

His mind was like a sensitive plate. He was curious, eager and interested in everything, so that everything that came to his hearing or sight was stored up in his brain for future use. He studied men as he studied his goods, and he became a cracker-jack salesman, dealing with all sorts of men under all sorts of conditions from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from the Gulf of Mexico to Montreal.

Advocating interesting things. He saw an opening in the East, threw up his position, accepted one at five dollars a week, plugged along until he was discouraged. Finally he went to the boss one day and said, "Do you think I could earn my keep? Do you think there is any future for me in the business?"

"Yes," said the boss, "but you don't want to be discouraged. Persist, plug, persist. Your trouble is that if you don't get an order right away you are apt to lose your nerve."

It was a lesson to the young man. He went out into the nooks and corners of the field, and he never there seemed to be a possible advertiser he was there. Finally after several months of discouraging work he secured an order. He came in with it like a boy with a new toy. Then he was put on special work, getting advertising for a magazine dealing with country life. He began to get orders. Next he had an offer to represent the magazine in New York city.

He went to his employer, told him about the offer. The employer asked him to accept the position because of the greater experience it would give him, and he became a New York representative. He came in contact with big agencies and big advertisers. He grew fast, and finally became manager of the whole business. In fact, advertising is taking advantage of the opportunities with an alert, open mind.

Newspaper advertising opens the widest opportunities for the sale of your goods. It goes into so many homes and offices so often that no other kind of advertising can compare with it in intensive quality.

It is the New England field the Boston American can open up prospect after prospect for the sale of your goods. It has the greatest circulation of any newspaper in New England. It reaches almost 400,000 readers daily.

The Legislature's Duty and the Rights of Organized Labor

For several years the Legislature of Massachusetts has been postponing the inevitable correction of the hardships which the present interpretation of the law by the courts works upon organized labor.

Again this year the representatives of organized labor have appeared before the committees of the Legislature with their petition for redress of grievances.

With a persistence and patience and courtesy which deserve QUICKER RESULTS, the men who have presented the cause of the workingmen in the last few years have once more presented it to the present Legislature.

RIGHT is so clearly on the side of organized labor in its demands, that it is impossible to believe that a body of intelligent men could refuse to grant these demands UPON THE MERITS OF THE CASE.

The postponement of the redress of these grievances occurs because the opponents of organized labor BRING POLITICAL PRESSURE STRONGLY TO BEAR. But it would seem that recent political history in the State ought to warn men who allow political consideration to outweigh higher considerations that one of the most dangerous body of men in our community to whom to continue the DENIAL OF JUSTICE is organized labor.

Governor Bates vetoed a bill in which organized labor had set its heart. Was anybody ever more summarily and overwhelmingly punished? Governor Guild rewarded the Senator who killed the same bill before it reached the Governor by an appointment to the Superior Bench.

During Governor Guild's campaign for re-election he was OBLIGED TO PROMISE TO SIGN THAT BILL, and he did.

Everyone who knows the true inwardness of the last campaign appreciates that if Governor Draper had been less cordially disliked by organized labor he could have taken advantage of many circumstances, the profit of which was denied him by his attitude toward the workingmen of this Commonwealth.

It is little wonder that the workingmen, who constitute a majority of the State, should be a most powerful political factor.

Political fear ought not to bias the judgment of any member of the Legislature upon this or any other question. Their own honest convictions or the clearly expressed will of a majority of the whole people should always guide and determine the action of the Legislature.

But if men insist upon balancing the political power of those who demand and those who oppose legislative measures, they ought not to be wrong both on the merits of the measure and on the estimate of the power of those behind it. It is too clear for argument that a number of legislators every year for political reasons vote against giving the workingmen the right to a trial by jury and defining the rights of workingmen on a strike when peacefully communicating with those who are seeking to take their place.

In recent years the courts have exercised a power against the workingmen which is UNJUST, unprecedented and unconstitutional. By their injunction they forbid workingmen to do that which was never unlawful for them to do before, and thus the courts have usurped the function of the Legislature.

By finding men guilty of the alleged doing of certain alleged unlawful things and depriving them of their liberty without trial by jury, the courts have usurped the function of the jury and destroyed, in particular instances, one of the most sacred of an American's constitutional rights.

WORKINGMEN DEMAND THAT THE LEGISLATURE SHALL FORBID THE COURTS FROM ANY FURTHER ATTEMPTS TO EXERCISE THE LAWMAKING POWER.

Workingmen demand also that the things which they may do or may not do, when on a strike, shall be defined by law, so that they may know it in advance. They object to the right of a judge, whose personal sympathies may be strongly engaged against them, to say what they may or may not do, and then to hale them into court and find them guilty of violating this judge-made law and send them to jail WITHOUT THE RIGHT TO A TRIAL BY JURY, WITHOUT THE RIGHT TO APPEAL, AND WITHOUT LIMITATION OF SENTENCE.

Colonel Josiah H. Benton, Jr., one of the ablest lawyers at the Massachusetts bar and the man the New Haven Railroad relies upon when it wants real brains, speaking of the public feeling against this usurpation by the courts, said:

> "It means that the courts have, in the judgment of many thoughtful and intelligent citizens, and of Congress, exceeded their just powers; that they have by the so-called exercise of equity power practically assumed to create and to punish offences upon trial by themselves without a jury, and with penalties imposed at their discretion. And this means that if the courts continue in this course, their power to enforce their orders by proceedings for contempt will be limited by legislation."

After quoting the decision of a Massachusetts court, Mr. Benton said:

> "Is it any wonder that laboring men say that
>
> "'Laws grind the poor
> And rich men rule the law?'"

The demands of organized labor are modest. Probably the present Legislature will grant them, for this Legislature appears to contain a large number of good men.

FAVORS 3-CENT COIN

Editor AMERICAN:

The United States government should coin three-cent pieces. The car companies ridicule any attempts to reduce their charges. They realize how inconvenient it would be for them and their patrons to handle anything less than a "big round white nickel." The telephone companies, too, feel that so long as the "nickel" is the smallest coin next to the "cent" they are sure to get their price. The three-cent coin would act as a foundation on which to place argument for lower rates. Another important coin is the half cent. Almost all the European countries have them. Why shouldn't we? It is unfair to the purchaser who is compelled to pay over half a cent on goods sold at a fractional price.

VETERAN CONFIRMS STORY.

Editor AMERICAN:

I thank you for publishing "An old soldier's story of the canteen." It is the best and most straightforward article on the question that I have seen published. I am a soldier with twenty years' service to my credit, and I am sorry to say that the abolishing of the canteen in the United States army has done much more harm than good. Keep up the good work on this question.

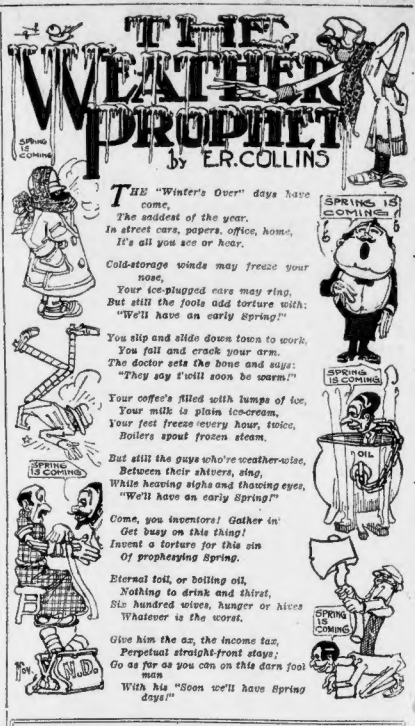
THE WEATHER PROPHET

By E. R. COLLINS



THE "Winter's Over" days have come,
The sadest of the year.
In street cars, papers, office, home,
It's all you see or hear.

Cold-storage winds may freeze your nose,
Your ice-plugged cars may ring,
But still the fools add torture with:
"We'll have an early Spring!"

You slip and slide down town to work,
You fall and crack your arm.
The doctor sets the bone and says:
"They say t'will soon be warm!"

Your coffee's filled with lumps of ice,
Your milk is plain ice-cream,
Your feet freeze every hour, twice,
Boilers spout frozen steam.

But still the guys who're weather-wise,
Between their shivers, sing,
While heaving sighs and thawing eyes,
"We'll have an early Spring!"

Come, you inventors! Gather in
Get busy on this thing!
Invent a torture for this sin
Of prophesying Spring.

Eternal toil, or boiling oil,
Nothing to drink and thirst,
Six hundred wives, hunger or hives
Whatever is the worst.

Give him the ax, the income tax,
Perpetual straight-front stays;
Go as far as you can on this darn fool man
With his "Soon we'll have Spring days!"

G. Washington Brown's 'Control'

By WEX JONES

GEORGE WASHINGTON BROWN had a great bump of veneration, and of all the things he venerated, the principal was the memory of the Immortal after whom he had been named. Many an hour he mused upon the virtues of our first President, and particularly upon the virtuous inability of the earlier George to tell a lie. As February 22 approached, Brown naturally dwelt more and more upon the topic until it finally excluded everything else.

* * *

Brown had finished his breakfast and was putting on his coat.

"Washington, dear," said his wife—she always called him Washington, said it sounded distinguished—"Washington, dear, could you let me have $50 this morning. There are some things I absolutely must get."

Brown's mind flashed him the answer in a moment. He had answered similar requests before and always with some variation. "I'm awfully sorry, my dear, but I've had to pay up some bills and I'm very short of cash. I can give you a couple of dollars, if that will help out." To-day, however, he could not speak. He seemed to have lost control of his tongue.

As he did not answer at once, Mrs. Brown said, "How much money have you in your pockets?"

To this Brown meekly replied, "Seven dollars," exhibiting as he spoke a five dollar and a two dollar bill, kept in a special pocket for just that purpose.

To-day he could not answer thus. Some strange spirit seemed to control his tongue, and before he knew he had answered "Two hundred dollars."

"Oh, good," exclaimed Mrs. Brown, "then, of course, I can have my fifty."

But another question suggested itself. She had heard seven dollars mentioned so often that she now asked, "Why are you carrying around so much cash?"

On the moving picture screen of Brown's brain he clearly saw the reply he should make—"I have a business deal to settle up, and cash is absolutely necessary."

But Brown could not say a word of this. Instead, some ruthless control forced the wretched man to answer, "I was going over to Smith's to-night to play poker."

"Give me the whole two hundred at once," cried Mrs. Brown, holding out her hand.

Slowly, sadly G. Washington Brown passed the money.

"Didn't you tell me you never played poker?"

"I don't—er, that is hardly ever except two or three times a week," responded the trembling man.

"Then you never have to work late at the office?"

Brown gulped, but an irresistible control impelled him to admit that he had never been in the office after 6 o'clock.

"After this, then, you'll be home every night at 6:30 or I'll know the reason," said Mrs. Brown. "Here, mail this letter for me, and hurry, or you'll be late to work."

It was a disheartened wreck of the once lofty Brown that rode down in the subway and slunk up to his desk. "What's the matter with me, anyway," he savagely asked himself, and the sight of a papier mache hatchet on his desk, instead of giving him pleasure, filled him with rage.

It was late in the afternoon when the boss came up to Brown and asked him what he thought of a new plan the boss had thought up for increasing business. "You're a bright young man," said the boss, "and I know your opinion will be worth having."

Brown knew the answer he should make—"Great! It's a splendid plan!! How did you think of it?" Did Brown make this reply. No; some miserable control forced him to say, "Don't see anything in it. We'd only lose money by trying it."

The look of angry surprise on the boss's face was a wonder. "Your brains are handily up to the needs of this business, Mr. Brown," he remarked and stalked away.

More depressed than ever Brown dragged himself home.

"Did you mail my letter?" asked Mrs. Brown.

Many a time had Brown answered just this question, but never before had he answered "no," whatever the event. This time, however, he replied, forced against his will to do so, "No, I forgot."

Enough. On February 23 Brown was normal again. He tried to tell his wife—also the boss at the office—that he had been joking, but his wife merely smiled mystically and the boss merely grunted.

Brown got over it, but he will never look quite the same. He has changed his name from G. Washington Brown to plain George Brown, and from midnight, February 21, to midnight, February 22, every year he will have himself locked up in a cell and muzzled. So the spirit of G. W. must bust up some one else to control.

IMMORTALITY OF SOUL

Editor AMERICAN:

Every human being is personally concerned in the question of "the immortality of the soul," but with this question, as with all others, mere assertions or denials only neutralize one another and do no good. Because we love, we hope that death does not end all; that sometime, somewhere, we shall meet again. And, when all is said, that hope is all we have. It isn't much, and yet it is a precious deal, for it is on that hope, born of love, that our civilization really rests. We should cherish it always. If we are ever going to solve the problem, we should begin by admitting our own complete ignorance and then welcoming aid from whatever source. No one should ever rebuke or discourage thinkers on a question like the present, for there can be no telling who the great discoverer of immortality may prove to be.

Was He not the unlettered son of a poor carpenter who gave us the Golden Rule?

LOVE AND MARRIAGE

Editor AMERICAN:

Many years ago I answered the question published in your paper from A. G. H., on the subject of "true love" and marriage. I am a lonely man of middle age who has read much and made a study of the unhappiness and misery of many lives and homes.

If every young person was taught that wherever cases of love would grow weary of the next one's affection that came into their lives, they would keep and forbear with that first love until death parted them.

Marriage is for the making and maintaining of a home and the propagating of the human race and for nothing else, and should be so taught, written and preached. Anything else is unhallowed and unsanctioned by the Divine Creator who made woman as a helpmate for man and not a snare and a hindrance to the Kingdom of Heaven or perfect health that, pray, be found on earth.
